Suit against 'tax on tax'

Two suits were filed Tuesday in Madison County Circuit Court seeking injunctions and requesting, among other things, an accounting from two utilities, the State Department of Revenue and five municipalities in Madison and St. Clair Counties. The municipalities include the village of Ponton Beach.

The suits, designated as "class actions," seek a return from the various defendants of funds it is alleged they unlawfully assessed against utility customers of Illinois Power Company and Union Electric Company.

Under the theory of the class actions, not only the persons bringing the present actions as plaintiffs, but all others similarly situated, would be entitled to a return of funds if the suits are successful.

The claims evolve from alleged practices of the defendants in imposing a tax on a tax in regard to customers' utility bills.

Three separate taxes are involved in the computation of these bills, according to the complaint: those taxes placed on the utility bills by the municipality, a municipality tax; those collected by the utility as a "cost" of accounting; and those imposed by the state of Illinois as a state tax.

According to the law firm of Chapman and Carlson of Granite City, which in conjunction with certain Chicago lawyers filed the complaints, when the utility customer receives his ultimate bill, these various taxes have been compounded.

The tax on each is calculated on the gross charge plus the tax of one or more of the other taxes levied, it is contended.

In effect, this results in the payment of a tax on a tax; the recovery, the law firm says, could amount to several millions of dollars in reimbursements to utility customers if the claims are sustained.

Joined in the one complaint are the Illinois Power Company, the director of the Department of Revenue of Illinois, and the municipalities of Ponton Beach, East St. Louis, Cahokia and South Roxana.

In the other suit are the Department of Revenue, Union Electric and the municipalities of Cahokia, Washington Park, East St. Louis and South Roxana.

Legal ruling poses dilemma for Byron

Primary election near

Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas Byron may remember the late winter of 1980 for a long time, informed sources comment.

His decision Jan. 16 to take a fuller look at a Granite City municipal bond issue legal fee has placed him in the position of issuing a ruling within the next week or two as to whether a conflict of interest exists.

Two large political factions are, to a degree, on opposite sides of the legal fee issue. Whichever way the official rules, he may make numerous friends and numerous enemies.

All of which is part of the job of the state's attorney, but it takes on special significance because Byron is on the Democratic primary ballot in March, seeking renomination for a third four-year term as the county's chief prosecutor and legal official. There are two other candidates in the Democratic balloting, and then a Republican to be faced in the November 1980 general election.

Byron has assured the officials who took documents to him that he will rule based on the law and the facts in the case. But some political impact, Japan's eyes on local sites?

Japanese auto manufacturing and Quad-City area plant sites continue to be a topic of much attention, and Illinois Governor James R. Thompson is continuing to put the subject high on his list of pending tasks.

The governor said Tuesday that his second industry-seeking trip to Japan may be advanced from late March to the February-early March period.

Two sites of more than 400 acres each have been discussed and visited, both near Interstate 270 and Illinois Route Three.

Illinois Power Co. property is situated southwest of the intersection, while Union Electric Co. land is located northeast of the same highway intersection.

With the current Madison County Region One sanitary sewer installation well along and scheduled for completion this summer, the availability of convenient sewer access is believed to have increased interest in the two sites.

The president of Nissan, which produces such autos as the Datsun, said in a Tokyo news conference Tuesday that his company will decide soon where in the United States to build a truck assembly plant. He added that a decision will be made by the end of 1980 on whether to begin making autos in the U.S.

An aside to the governor said this week Thompson does not know whether the local tracts or other Illinois sites are

High hopes for school sale

Hopes are running high that one or more bids will be received tomorrow for the purchase of McKinley Grade School, one of three schools closed by the Granite City district at the end of the 1978-79 school year.

A public sale is set for 10 a.m. Friday at the school, located at Niedringhaus Avenue and Iowa Street near 22nd Street.

A minimum bid of $200,000 has been established by the school system. Several months ago, with the minimum set at $300,000, no bids were attracted.

There has been public speculation that St. Elizabeth Medical Center may be interested in acquiring the property; SEMC is located across Niedringhaus from the McKinley campus. The school originally was built as a high school.

Inspection of the structure and grounds may be done immediately before the sale, with bidding to begin exactly at 10 a.m.

The sale will be conducted by the Madison County Regional Board of School Trustees, and the auctioneer will be Homer Henke.

If the building is sold, proceeds will be used by the school district to help renovate other schools.

ENERGY: SHORT CIRCUIT IN THE AMERICAN DREAM?

Gas lines. Brownouts. Fuel shortages. Have today's energy problems drained America's confidence? Dimmed our faith in science and technology? And short-circuited progress toward the American Dream of shared prosperity and abundance?

The far-reaching consequences of the current energy crunch and future prospects for plentiful power are the subjects of Courses by Newspaper's winter series "Energy and the Way We Live." As a regular reader of this thought-provoking series by energy experts, you'll weigh the pros and cons of such likely energy sources as solar, nuclear, synthetic fuels and conservation.

Energy decisions made in the 1980s will shape America's future for the rest of this century. Let Courses by Newspaper illuminate your thinking about these critical issues. It's definitely worth the energy.

Series starts today

The tough choices that will, shape our energy future are the subject of a series this winter that is designed to spark public participation in a national debate on energy questions. Publication of the 15-part, thought-provoking series, "Energy and the Way We Live," begins today in the Press-Record on Page 14.

Issues raised in this series will be discussed as part of a nationwide dialogue on energy issues planned for February, March and April.

Organized by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, community forums and town meetings will be held in hundreds of communities across the country during a ten-week period.

Coordinated by Melvin Kranzberg, Callaway professor of the history of technology at Georgia Institute of Technology, the series is authored by energy experts who explore the history of energy technology and consumption, the impact of often contradictory values on energy policy, and the effects of current energy dilemmas on the national and international scene.

Among the authors are Dorothy K. Newman, socio-economist, consultant, and lectures on energy issues; S. David Freeman, chairman of the board of directors, Tennessee Valley Authority; Lynn White Jr., university professor of history, emeritus, University of California, Los Angeles.

John G. Burke, professor of history, University of California, Los Angeles; Daniel Bell, professor of sociology, Harvard University; Norman Metzger, senior editor, Office of Information, National Academy of Sciences.

John K. Cooley, defense and national security affairs correspondent, The Christian Science Monitor; Joel Darmstadter, senior fellow, Center for Energy Policy Research, Resources for the Future.

Kenneth K. Boulding, distinguished professor of economics and director, Program for Research on General Social and Economic Dynamics, Institute of Behavioral Sciences, University of Colorado at Boulder; Don E. Kash, research professor of political science and director, Science and Public Policy Program, University of Oklahoma.

Alvin M. Weinberg, director, Institute of Energy Analysis, Oak Ridge Associated Universities; Wilson Clark, assistant to the governor for issues and planning, State of California.

John H. Gibbons, director, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C.; William Chandler, senior research associate, The Energy Environment and Resources Center, University of Tennessee; and Denis Hayes, executive director, Solar Energy Research Institute, Golden, Colo.

A specially prepared calendar of issues will serve as the basis of community discussions sponsored by colleges, libraries, museums, and civic and public service groups.

A seven-part series of half-hour documentaries broadcast by National Public Radio and a series of public affairs programs produced for cable systems nationwide by WTBS-TV, the Atlanta "super station," will provide other avenues for reader involvement.

Overpass in jeopardy?

By GARY SCHNEIDER

of the Press-Record

Granite City residents should not get their hopes up too high when bids for a new 19th Street overpass are opened tomorrow in Springfield, Mayor Paul Schuler warned at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

"Apparently the overpass is in serious trouble," Mayor Schuler told the council. He noted that the engineers' new estimate of the cost of the project is about $5.6 million, up nearly $250,000 since the first round of bidding Nov. 30, when the estimate was $5,353,000. The lowest bid received at that time was $6,499,500 and had to be rejected as too far above the estimate.

Mayor Schuler said, "If the project comes in $1 million above our available funds this time, the overpass is in trouble, I'm afraid."

He said the possibility that the city could finance the difference between available funds and the construction

TUMBLING TUMBLEWEED partially blocks a sidewalk in the 1800 block of Delmar Avenue, looking from 19th Street, in this photograph taken Wednesday. Debris of all kinds had accumulated along the gutter and walk. Unusual wind patterns near the intersection, where two buildings were razed during the 1970's are said to be part of the cause for the gathering of small items of refuse in this busily-traveled area of the downtown Granite City district.

BREAK INTO SCHOOL

Nothing is known missing after a break-in at Lake School, East 23rd Street and Route 162, early this week. Papers were scattered on the floor of Room 144, but no other interior damage was found. Entry was gained by removing a window from its frame.

SERVICE RECOGNIZED. Erwin H. Landwehrmeyer, who retired with 33 years of service at the Madison Post Office, was honored last week by postal officials and his fellow workers. From the left are: Landwehrmeyer, holding a service award sent him by John P.

'70s—eventful decade for thoroughbred racing here

By JOHN SCULLY

Many changes have been made in the past decade but one thing has been a constant, Everett Hammond as leading trainer.

In the '70s at both Fairmount Park and Cahokia Downs, Hammond failed only once to be the leading trainer.

He has also ranked in the top five nationally many years, but has been unable to duplicate the national title that he won in 1967.

A change at Fairmount Park was the building of the new grandstand. It replaced the original structure, which was built in 1925 and burned down April 25, 1974. Because of that fire, all the records prior to that time were lost.

Fairmount Park raced at Cahokia Downs for the 1974 and 1975 seasons and returned back to the Collinsville oval in the spring of '76.

The feature race on that opening card, the Inaugural Stakes, was won by Just Jazz, with veteran rider Manuel Gonzalez doing the booting 1976 like many other years past and in the future was dominated by Dave Gall in the jockey standings, as he won 144 races with 738 mounts in the 90-day meet.

The following year, Dave again swamped his rivals, winning 163 races. His nearest rival, Herson Sanchez, had 73.

In 1974, Gall had a commanding lead with a month and half remaining, when he took a bad spill and was out for the remainder of the year. In spite of this, he led the standings until the final night, when Billy Gammon overtook him to win by two lengths.

Trooper applicants are sought

A statewide campaign to recruit applicants as sworn officers has been launched by the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement and the state Law Enforcement Merit Board.

This recruitment period is designed to fill 160 positions with the best qualified candidates. Primarily, the openings are for Division of State Police troopers.

Applicants must be between 21 and 36 years of age with a high school diploma or its equivalent.

Other requirements include: 20-20 vision (correctable) with no color blindness and 100 percent depth perception; good health and physical fitness; U.S. citizenship; no felony violations; possession of a valid driver license, and willingness to accept assignment anywhere in the state.

The selection process involves applicant orientation, physical ability test, written examination, oral interview, background investigation and medical examination.

Those successfully completing the process will be considered for an 18-week training period at the Department of Law Enforcement Training Academy in Springfield.

The first call of 40 cadets is scheduled for November 1980, with three classes slated in 1981.

During training, cadets earn $1,225 per month. Upon graduation, the monthly salary is increased to $1,267. To maintain compliance with the department's affirmative action guidelines, 50 percent of those hired will be white males, 43 percent will be minority males, and 7 percent will be women, both white and minority.

Applications and additional information about qualifications and the selection process can be obtained from:

DLI Merit Board, 3087 Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, Ill. 62702 (telephone 217-782-6260).

The nearest State Police headquarters.

Or, DLE Bureau of Personnel, 200 Armory Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706 (telephone 217-782-2854).

Returned applications must be postmarked no later than April 20, 1980.

Average of $105 tax relief voted by Ill. House, Senate

Representative Sam Wolf, (D) Granite City, announced today that the Illinois Legislature has passed and approved property tax relief legislation providing tax relief for all home owners who occupy their residences. HB 2563, which was amended by the Senate and returned to the House for concurrence, provides for immediate tax relief for home owners in allowing an additional $1,500 homestead exemption on equalized assessed valuation, raising the total to $3,000 for 1979 and subsequent years. Assuming a $7 per hundred tax rate, this would mean approximately $105 per year in tax savings to most property owners who qualify for the exemption, Wolf said. Approval is subject to action by Governor James Thompson. "Implementation of this exemption should not prove to be much of a burden for most tax assessors as just a year ago a similar exemption was allowed for 1978 taxes," he commented. "The exemption provided by the 1980 legislation would simply increase this total from $1,500 to $3,000. "It was the general feeling of legislative leaders, that this type of legislation would provide the quickest means of offsetting, to a degree, the rapidly increasing spiral of real estate assessments due to inflation. "Fifteen hundred dollars in assessed valuation would be equivalent to an increase in market value of $4,500. "This legislation also provides for a mandate to abate tax levies for all taxing districts when surpluses exist. "It provides a mechanism for taxing districts to abate levies inflated due to misunderstanding the nature of the corporate personal property tax replacement revenues, or for any reason when levies are excessive.

"Abatement would be required pursuant to a resolution or ordinance by the proper governing authorities for the year in which such resolution or ordinance is adopted. "Many units of local government which had been willing to roll back tax levies voluntarily in order to reflect proper revenues for submitted budgets found that, under present statutes, they could not do so. "With legislation as indicated above, authority is provided therein to accomplish and to solve this problem. "This was not a problem in Madison County, as there were no excessive levies submitted with regard to the replacement of the corporate personal property tax," Wolf added. The legislation passed in the House with 140 of the representatives approving, 14 dissenting and 23 not voting.

Homestead property is defined as property occupied by the owner as a principal dwelling place. "The program in no way compromises the senior citizens' homestead exemption, which would be in addition to the provision herein," Rep. Wolf noted.

DOG IS STOLEN

A large St. Bernard dog was stolen from the Granite City Humane Shelter on Missouri Avenue about 11:55 p.m. Tuesday. A witness reported a man was cutting the fence around the shelter; when police arrived they found a hole in the fence and three strands of barbed wire on top of the fence cut. They searched the building, but no one was found inside.

For 25 years a 2,500-member West German organization known as Tail Ones has been writing polite, but so far ineffective, letters to the Federal Finance Ministry requesting tax relief for oversized people. They seek the break for women 6 feet or over and men 6 ft. 2 in. or over because of the extra cost of higher doorways, longer beds, bigger bathtubs, clothes and other items.

Workshop on automated off-site banking centers

The old concept of "bankers' hours" is being eliminated in the 1980s throughout Illinois as the evolutionary system of electronic banking is phased into operation. In anticipation of this new era, a one-day workshop examining new state legislation and other implications of electronic banking systems will be held for area bankers Wednesday, Jan. 30, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Buckley's Ramada Inn, 1-64 and Highway 159.

This is the last in a series of six such workshops for members of the banking industry, sponsored by the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois.

Representatives of the leading automatic teller machines (ATM's) manufacturers, plus experts in the electronic banking field, will make presentations.

James B. Watt, president of AMBI, said, "The new Electronic Funds Transfer

Commuter assistance

The creation of a new Office of Commuter Assistance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was announced Tuesday by Dr. Rita C. Frijters, vice president for business affairs.

She said the office will be staffed by a coordinator whose prime responsibility will be to help identify transportation needs and different modes of transportation, organize car and van pools, and find parking and waiting facilities along bus routes.

The coordinator will report to Harry Lutz, director of Transportation Service at the university.

"This will be an office where you get action as well as advice," Dr. Frijters said. The coordinator will collect data on transportation needs as expressed by students, faculty and staff.

The office will be in central location, in the University Center, Dr. Frijters said. An announcement of the new position will be posted by the university's personnel office in the near future.

The new office is an expansion of the carpooling and bus expansion efforts promoted by the university during the past year. In the summer of 1979, a carpooling program was launched in the Granite City area. It was expanded in September to include all of Madison and St. Clair counties and part of St. Louis.

A map was placed in the University Center, with 29 zones outlined. Interested persons may complete a card, seeking a ride or rider. The card is then placed on the board under the correct zone.

In October, bus service between downtown St. Louis and the local campus was inaugurated by the Bi-State Development Agency, with three runs to and from the campus daily.

System (EFTS) banking laws which went into effect Jan. 1 permit Illinois banks to set up wholly-owned ATM units at non-bank sites within two miles of their main offices during the 1980 calendar year.

"In addition, each bank can establish up to eight, additional machine locations, at the rate of two per year, which must be available for sharing with other banks, savings and loan associations or credit unions.

"Today's fast pace means people find they often cannot come into a bank during regular banking hours and they want the opportunity to make transactions anytime, 24 hours a day, 365 days of the year."

"Soon a bank's customers will be able to electronically bank with their favorite financial institution near supermarkets, shopping centers and other remote locations. This is what these workshops are all about," he said.

Law signed on Chicago school funds

Governor James Thompson last week approved legislation intended to rescue the Chicago school district from its financial crisis and create a finance authority with power to force the Chicago Board of Education to balance its budget.

This long-range legislative package includes no tax increase," said Thompson. The governor approved House Bills 1264 and 1910, both effective immediately.

HB 1910 allows the City of Chicago to borrow $225 million through tax anticipation notes.

HB 1264 creates the Chicago School Finance Authority, which can veto the Board of Education budget in total, appoint the board's chief financial officer, audit the board's books and issue up to $500 million in long-range general obligation bonds.

Wolf to be honored at fund dance

The Citizens for Sam Wolf Committee "fun(d) dance" to aid the re-election campaign of State Representative Sam Wolf is set for the Collinsville Park Ballroom Sunday evening, beginning at 7:30.

Many of the "name bands," such as the Dorseys and Glen Miller, have in past years appeared at the ballroom, which has recently been remodeled and refurbished, a committee spokesman said.

Numerous state and local officials have indicated they will be on hand for the dance, including State Treasurer Jerome Cosentino, State Comptroller Roland Burris, Congressman Melvin Price, state representatives and senators from many of the districts throughout the state, as well as most of the county and area municipal officials.

The Joey James Orchestra, one of the most popular dance bands to play in this metropolitan area, will start the festivities at 7:30 and will play until about 11:30 or 12.

Introduction of special guests will begin at approximately 9 p.m. Sunday and will be handled by Master of Ceremonies Wilbur Trimpe, president of the Lewis and Clark College, formerly Madison County superintendent of schools.

Tickets can be purchased in advance by calling 877-2545 or can be purchased at the door for $1 each.

R. C. Parrish dies suddenly

Robert Charles Parrish, 63, of 2404 Center St., was stricken suddenly by an apparent heart attack at the Ingleside Tavern, 23rd Street and Madison Avenue, at 5:03 p.m. Tuesday and was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 5:43 p.m. after attempts to revive him failed.

Mr. Parrish's widow, Mrs. Olive Maxine Parrish, said her husband had been painting a bedroom at their home and said he was going to the tavern for a short break. While there, he was stricken.

Firemen Mike Nesbit and Daniel Worthen from the main fire station across the street from the tavern responded and attempted to revive him at the scene. Both are Emergency Medical Technicians with the fire department.

Mr. Parrish then was taken to the medical center where doctors worked on him for 30 minutes before declaring him dead.

Mr. Parrish was born in Deland, Ill., and resided here 18 years. He was a federal employee for many years and was assigned to the Granite City Army Depot in 1970 as a stationary engineer. He retired in 1975.

He was a veteran of the U.S. Air Force.

Surviving, besides his widow, are a daughter, Mrs. Neal (Carolyn Sue) Sawyer of Fort Worth, Tex.; four brothers, Paul Parrish of Bradenton, Fla.; Max Parrish of Monticello, Ill.; Kenneth Parrish of Deland and Clarence Parrish of Bement, Ill.; two sisters, Mrs. James (Veda) Taulbee of South Lebanon, Ohio, and Mrs. Leland (Betty) Williams of Deland, and two grandchildren.

NAACP topics include census, vote registration

An Illinois State Conference Board meeting of the National Association of the Advancement of Colored People was held Sunday in Peoria.

Problem workshops were held.

A general meeting then was called to order by John H. Gwynn, state president, and reports were given by the branch presidents.

A voting registration drive and the 1980 census count were topics of local interest.

"These are the keys that I feel need to be in the eyes of the public," the Rev. John Henry Williams, president of the Madison Branch, said.

City tries to save on tire, car repairs

Members of the Granite City Council's finance committee have been asked to investigate whether the city could save money by purchasing equipment to repair its own punctured tires and by utilizing school mechanics classes for tune-ups and minor repairs on city vehicles.

Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward said he had been studying the bill lists and noted bills for $96 for tire repairs on the monthly bill list.

Alderman Glen Sprankle of the Fourth Ward, chairman of the council's pollution plant committee, said that with the treatment plant's trucks dumping sludge at the Mal Landfill, "We have had a staggering amount of flats, and that is just one department."

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the finance committee, said the committee has studied the proposal before, and added, "Paying $100 seems a lot less than hiring a man and paying him to do it." Bowler said repairing flat tires is not in any of the union work assignments, including the mechanics at the city street department garage.

However, Bowler pledged,

he would have the committee look into the matter again.

Fisk also asked the finance committee to contact school officials to determine if high school auto mechanics classes would use city vehicles to practice minor vehicle and tune-up work. "This could save the city a great deal of money," he speculated.

Mayor Paul Schuler agreed, saying, "I am sure the finance committee will look into that too."

Bowler reported the city is very close to full conversion into being self-insured. City Clerk Robert W. Stevens was authorized to execute surety bonds which will enable the city to self-insure for workmen's compensation.

"I believe you will see self-insurance will save us a great deal of money in the next budget. A great deal of money," Bowler predicted. The council authorized expenses for any alderman who wishes to attend a workshop to be hosted by the Illinois Property Assessment Institute in Peoria March 3 to 5. Mayor Schuler urged aldermen to attend, saying, "I feel that with taxes upmost on our and the citizens' minds, we should take every advantage to learn everything we can."

In other business, the aldermen—

—Voted to put police dispatcher Stanley Myers on the city payroll when his pay under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) expires Jan. 31. Police Chief Ronald J. Yeizer said Myers "has done an outstanding job, has perfect attendance, has never been late and has attended several training seminars." His pay is $9,984 per year. Alderman Roy Paulos was the only alderman voting against the expenditure.

—Approved a parade permit for the annual Annapolis Shrine Circus Parade to be held Friday, June 10, at 7 p.m., under supervision of the chief of police, Kelly Hogan is parade chairman.

—Accepted the resignation of Paul Grennell from the city's housing rehabilitation board "with deep regrets." Alderman Fisk stated, "We hate to lose him. He could have been a fine asset to our community." Grennell is leaving his post as executive director of the YMCA here next month to head a new YMCA in Ithica, N.Y.

—Voted to rebid for new electric typewriters for the city. Alderman Sprankle said the city had advertised for bids before and mailed specifications to several local suppliers, but no bids were received.

—Accepted the recommendation of the Granite City Board of Appeals in granting a variance to room addition and kitchen extension in line with the present building about three feet from the side property line.

—Voted to seek bids to sell a 1970 pickup truck the city has declared surplus.

—Concurred with appointment by the mayor of George Heth as the city's boiler inspector.

—Were informed that Laborers Local 397 and Painters Local 120 wish open negotiations on new contracts with the city.

Bird count shows wildlife decrease

By JOAN MURARO

SPRINGFIELD — Harsh winters, fall plowing and the continuing boom in housing and shopping center construction continue to take their toll on Illinois birdlife.

When the annual Christmas bird count was held here in mid-December, the 19 volunteers and state museum ornithologist David Bohlen spent a full day in the field and logged 1,792 individuals representing 66 species.

Conspicuous by their absence this year were bobwhite (quail), mockingbirds, and cowbirds (blackbirds), among several others, all of which were once common in the area.

The previous year, Bohlen said, 64 quail were counted, as well as six golden crowned kinglets, four mockingbirds, three eastern bluebirds and two cowbirds.

"A couple of years ago there was a roost of cowbirds out by the (state) transportation building," Bohlen said, "but they broke it up and the birds scattered. I don't think there's any shortage of them, they just weren't around here for the count."

If bird-watchers didn't view it as a total loss that there weren't still thousands of blackbirds and the absence of the others was something else, since they had not been scattered deliberately as the cowbirds had.

Failure to sight quail, mockingbirds and bluebirds, Bohlen said, probably doesn't indicate there are none of them left in central Illinois, but it reflects that their numbers are few, and getting fewer.

"The last three bad winters," he said, "wiped a lot of them out," while unnecessary cutting of brushy areas, urbanization and fall plowing all reduce habitat.

Without a place to nest and feed shelter, the birds must migrate or die.

"So far this winter it looks pretty good," he said, "but..."

"One more really bad winter," he indicated, could mean real disaster for the already endangered bird species as they continue to try and adjust to the other ongoing challenges to their survival.

The Christmas bird count is taken nationally on a day chosen in each area from a set two-week time span.

It originated, he said, during the turn of the century when the "side hunt" was a popular winter activity. In that hunt, Bohlen said, "they went out and just killed everything they could. Anything that moved apparently was a target."

In protest against the slaughter, an early eastern conservationist organized a bird-watch instead. The bird count eventually grew into a national activity, and today its goal is to provide as much accurate information as possible about species, conditions and other data which will give professionals a better estimate of conditions among the nation's bird populations, which are extremely susceptible to the impact of modern urbanization.

Among birds which were noted in quantity were robins (725), flickers (154) and myrtle warblers (37). There were 451 rock doves noted, 531 mallard ducks, 113 mourning doves, 73 red-bellied woodpeckers, 266 northern cardinals and 1,364 house sparrows.

The watchers saw only one each of the red-winged blackbird, purple finch, winter wren, Carolina wren, ruby-crowned kinglet, barred owl, glaucous gull, ring-necked pheasant, horned grebe, American wigeon, ruddy duck and sharp-shinned hawk.

Local men aid rescue at sea

Navy Electronics Technician 1st Class Jame E. Grimes, son of Lester O. and Lorraine M. Grimes, 100 Briarhaven Ave., and Navy Gunner's Mate 2nd Class George M. Woodward, son of George and Mary L. Woodward of 252 Holiday Mobile Home Court, have participated in a rescue at sea.

Woodward and Grimes are crewmembers aboard the guided missile destroyer U.S.S. Henry B. Wilson, homeported in San Diego and currently operating as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

The joint effort was coordinated by the Wilson and ended when four Americans were rescued from their sinking 35-foot yacht about 120 miles from Hong Kong in the stormy South China Sea.

The four were enroute from Hong Kong to Guam when their boat, the Gamit, was capsized by a huge wave.

After sighting their vessel, they sent out a "May day" call that was received in Hong Kong. A Royal Hong Kong aircraft and two merchant vessels joined the search along with a U.S. Navy patrol plane and the Wilson.

When the Navy plane spotted the Gamit, the Wilson sped to the area and brought the four aboard.

A graduate of East St. Louis High School and a 1972 graduate of Belleville Area College with an associate of science degree, Woodward joined the Navy in January 1977.

A 1960 Madison High School graduate, Grimes joined the Navy in June 1960.

Crib hazards are outlined

Saying that parents may be exposing their infants to the possibility of strangulation through the continued use of two types of baby cribs, William L. Kempiners, acting director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, again is urging Illinois consumers to participate in a nationwide effort to eliminate the hazard.

Kempiners said that, according to the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), the cribs involved are manufactured by Bassett Furniture Industries, Inc., Bassett, Va. The cribs are available in Illinois at many retail outlets where baby furniture is sold, he said.

The cribs which require modification to eliminate the strangulation hazard are the "Mandalay" and "Candlelite" styles.

The design of these styles makes it possible for infants standing in their cribs to trap their heads between a corner post and the headboard or footboard, and strangle, Kempiners said. Six reports of deaths have been reported to the CPSC since September 1977. None of these deaths occurred in Illinois.

The "Mandalay" cribs were produced with a bamboo-like motif, and include models 5126-505 and 5621-505 (painted yellow) and 5225-505 (painted white).

The model numbers can be found on an adhesive label affixed to the inside of the headboard below the mattress level.

The cribs were manufactured from February 1974 through October 1976, and sold for approximately $100 to $125 in stores nationwide.

Parents should remove all four finials (the decorative knobs on top of each cornerpost) by unscrewing them, he urged.

Consumers then should report that they have removed the finials by contacting the retailer from which the crib was purchased or the nearest Bassett crib dealer.

Reporting the modification will help Bassett and CPSC maintain an accurate record of the number of cribs repaired. Bassett crib dealers can be found by checking the "yellow pages" section of the telephone directory under the listing "Furniture, Children's," or by placing a collect call to Bassett at 703-629-7511, extension 340.

"Candlelite" style cribs were manufactured with a traditional colonial design in models 5028-505 and 5028-510 (stained in maple) and 5127-505 and 5127-510 (stained in pine). These model numbers also are printed on a label attached to the inside of the headboard below the mattress.

The cribs sold for about $100 in retail stores nationwide and were manufactured from December 1975 to mid-October 1977.

Consumers who have not had their "Candlelite" cribs modified should contact the store where it was purchased to arrange for free installation of modifying parts to close the openings in the headboards and footboards. Parents also can arrange to have these cribs repaired by contacting their nearest Bassett retailer.

Until the "Candlelite" cribs have been repaired, parents should push one end of the crib against a wall and move a high piece of furniture, such as a chest of drawers, against the other end, Kempiners said.

In May 1978, CPSC and Bassett announced a voluntary program to modify the cribs. Since then, only 1,000 of the "Mandalay" cribs have been reported modified.

"This is less than 20 percent of the estimated 5,000 'Mandalay' cribs produced," Kempiners said. About 1,200 of the 3,654 "Candlelite" cribs have been repaired. Bassett has agreed to produce thousands of large wall posters warning parents of the hazard, and to have the posters distributed to pediatricians throughout the U.S. for display in physicians' waiting rooms.

nevertheless, seems unavoidable.

Five officials opposing a $15,000 legal fee to the same lawyer who is paid a salary as city attorney feel they have established a clear case of conflict. The city attorney disavows and says there is ample precedent for the fee.

Those who held a press conference on the topic and then conferred with Byron—after his aide issued a preliminary ruling of "no conflict"—are focusing on a single city bond issue, the $10 million program for low-interest home mortgages.

They applaud the program but say the $15,000 should be repaid; a separate fee would have been appropriate for an attorney not working for the city, they believe, but they add that otherwise the bond work was part of the regular city attorney duties.

While the three aldermen, the street superintendent and a County Board member are emphasizing the home mortgage bond issue, it was suggested by others at Tuesday night's City Council session that the question now raised through the press conference could be the city's ability to participate in other bond issues, if it creates doubt in the minds of the bond buyers.

The five disagree, asserting that they are not talking about the bonds themselves but rather about one of the bond legal fees. They add that they favor the concept of the city's ability to encourage industrial, health and environmental improvements.

They allege that the city attorney is a non-voting but active city officer, and they cite portions of the various bond issue papers as showing that the city is responsible for all $10 million. The city attorney has said the $15,000 does not involve city or mortgage funds but is paid from the underwriters' fees.

The five officials are pointing out to Byron the following wording from the Illinois Municipal Code, Chapter 24, Cities and Villages, 3-14-4:

3-14-4. Pecuniary interests in contracts—Prohibition. (a) No municipal officer shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in his own name or in the name of any other persons, association, trust or corporation, in any contract, work or business of the municipality, or in the sale of any article, whenever the expense, price or consideration of the contract, work, business or sale is paid either from the treasury or by any assessment levied by any statute or ordinance.

No municipal officer shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in the purchase of any property which (1) belongs to the municipality, or (2) is sold for taxes or assessments, or (3) is sold by virtue of legal process at the suit of the municipality.

(b) However, any elected or appointed member of the governing body may provide materials, merchandise, property, services or labor, if:

A. the contract is with a person, firm, partnership, association, corporation or cooperative association in which such interested member of the governing body of the municipality has less than a 7½ percent share in the ownership; and

B. such interested member publicly discloses the nature and extent of his interest prior to or during deliberations concerning the proposed award of the contract; and

C. such interested member abstains from voting on the award of the contract, though he shall be considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum; and

D. such contract is approved by a majority vote of those members presently holding office; and

E. the contract is awarded after sealed bids to the lowest responsible bidder if the amount of the contract exceeds $1,500, but the contract may be awarded without bidding if the amount is less than $1,500; and

F. the award of the contract would not cause the aggregate amount of all such contracts so awarded to the same person, firm, association, partnership, corporation or cooperative association in the same fiscal year to exceed $25,000.

(c) In addition to the above exemption, any elected or appointed member of the governing body of the municipality provided that any such interested member shall abstain from voting; and

B. the amount of the contract does not exceed $250; and

C. the award of the contract would not cause the aggregate amount of all such contracts so awarded to the same person, firm, association, partnership, corporation or cooperative association in the same fiscal year to exceed $500; and

D. such interested member publicly discloses the nature and extent of his interest prior to or during deliberations concerning the proposed award of the contract; and cost by selling general obligation bonds may have been harmed by a recent challenge to the city's method of paying attorney fees related to bond issues.

E. such interested member abstains from voting on the award of the contract.

"Some doubt has been cast on our bonding procedures and perhaps the bonding companies won't want to pick up our bonds," Schuler stated.

After the meeting, the mayor told the Press-Record the city retains its AA rating for bonds, but said recent allegations by three aldermen, the street superintendent and a County Board member could affect the willingness of bond buyers to purchase the bonds. "If they think we are squabbling and are not together on this, it is possible they might turn us down," the mayor commented.

The challenge to the city's bonding procedures referred to occurred Jan. 10 when Madison County Board Member Dan Partney, Street Superintendent Lionel Portell and Aldermen Charles Douglas, Margaret Nomm and Lloyd Bailey held a news conference at which they alleged City Attorney Lance Collier collected a "windfall profit" for preparing the city's low-interest home mortgage bond program.

South's Follies had 'standing room only'

The Granite City High School South speech department's annual winter follies played last week to a capacity house, with standing room only.

The Follies were titled "3,000" and had more than 200 South oral communication students presenting original skits.

The various students were judged by a panel of twelve advanced speech students. The winning students will be taken to see the musical "Dancin'" at the Kiel Opera House.

Eye glasses cost less

According to the American Optometric Association, George Washington paid $75 for his eyeglasses at a time when a full course meal would have cost him only 25 cents.

At those rates the price of eyeglasses today would have been between $4,500 to $7,500 a pair. — CNS

Citizen soldiers called key to national defense

Leadership training being provided through the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus is a factor in the nation's safety and security and pursuit of peace, according to Capt. Lazerson, acting president of the university.

In an address delivered at the AFROTC Military Ball during the weekend at Scott Air Force Base, Lazerson said military officers trained on university campuses compose a group of "officers who know how to lead and, more importantly, know the directions which leadership in a force of citizen soldiers must take."

Praising "unity and restraint" shown in dealing with current events, President Lazerson said, "The United States of America has acted as a civilized society."

"Out of respect for the dignity of human life, and compassion for our hostages in Iran and those who love them, we have controlled our outrage and continue to pursue every possible avenue of negotiation."

Lazerson emphasized that this "mature demeanor is not due to luck or accident." He explained,

"In this country, among the institutions that directly act as conservators of civilized values, are our universities. I consider it fitting that the ROTC program maintain a presence at SIUE, an event that you as future officers be exposed to the values of American civilization which we help preserve, interpret and seek to communicate."

"Those who are not blessed with a recognition of these values are not likely to understand the nature and importance of peace, either."

"Our constant claim—which is intimately related to a military based on citizen soldiers—is that we fight only in defense of the crucial values without which life is not worth living."

Lazerson cited "outstanding training" provided through the program at SIUE. "You will enter active service with a broad practical knowledge of the field of specialization you have pursued," he told the cadets.

"Secondly, I think it is valuable that you will be performing your duties and making your judgments with the larger perspective that a solid university education provides. A good university education frees you to think for yourself—a concept which I realize conflicts with certain historical theories of military discipline."

"In other nations, where military service represents a separate, elite profession in society, an overriding value is placed on a soldier's ability to follow orders blindly. Ours is a society which provides certain checks and balances to prevent the emergence of such a lock-step mentality."

"Our nation tends to take peace for granted during periods of relative calm in international affairs."

"At such times, we also fail to appreciate the value of the ROTC, especially in regard to the long-term contribution the existence of this program has made to the character of our entire military establishment."

Pointing to the contributions of ROTC-trained officers, Lazerson said, "We have been prepared when hard duty has called, because of the basic components of our structure of defense is a reserve of officers trained in the ROTC tradition."

"Officers trained in the ethical and moral values of civilized society are well equipped to recognize such a call—and stand ready to answer with all the dispatch necessary. Because we have such assets available, we can engage in our peacetime pursuits in the confidence that we are safe and secure should danger arise."

The university president cited many of the nation's challenges in the past, including the Vietnam experience, "where we tasted the bitterness of divided national purpose."

He emphasized there is basis for optimism today: "The confrontations of recent days have brought us together in a way that suggests that many of the deepest wounds suffered as a result of Vietnam are healing."

"We congratulate the

'80s seen as rough, tough—but not dull

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — The '80s are going to be rough. And, unfortunately, the new decade is likely to be even rougher in its own state than in most others. For the unhappy fact is that many problems that have developed here over the last decade are likely to intensify if not multiply in the 1980s.

Just about every economist of consequence has predicted the United States will enter the '80s in a business recession, perhaps the most severe since World War II. This would be bad enough for a state so heavily industrialized as Illinois. But our troubles are compounded by the continuing loss of industry to other states and a persistent failure to attract new industry.

Halting this drain in jobs, tax revenues and creativity certainly will be one of the major challenges of Illinois state government, the state's business community and organized labor. If anything significant is going to be accomplished, the Legislature will have to soon come to grips with providing true tax relief for business, reforming the expensive workmen's compensation laws and, in the over-all, creating a much better business climate.

Illinois in the decade ahead will also have to face up to a grave problem growing by leaps and bounds. This is the conservation of its most valuable resource—land. Illinois farmland is being gobbled up or eroded at an alarming rate, and if the trend is not reversed this state could well lose its standing as America's leading exporter of farm products, including corn and soybeans.

Illinois as the nation's most prolific producer of nuclear power also will be faced with far-reaching decisions in this area. Should the use of nuclear energy be expanded or should it be curtailed as a hazard to life? Any decision in this area is certain to have a tremendous impact on Illinois.

The 1980s will probably see a far-reaching decision as to whether Illinois' vast resources of high-sulfur coal can truly be utilized in meeting the nation's energy needs or whether the long-cherished dream of a new boom in the coal fields will have to be abandoned forever.

If a historic scientific and technological breakthrough in coal is realized, many problems affecting Illinois' economy and its tax outlook would be greatly diminished if not solved. Coal may hold the key to whether economically the state's '80s will be golden or gloomy.

Education at all levels will be another great challenge of the 1980s. Enrollments at colleges, high and elementary schools are stabilizing or declining while education costs continue to soar in an inflationary economy. As the current situation in Chicago so dramatically illustrates, school treasuries are beginning to go dry. Nor can the problem be limited to Chicago. How to provide more money for education will be a big question for the '80s.

Perhaps even more important than raising money for the schools will be determining the control of them. Increasing dependence on state and federal money has raised concern as to whether local control of schools can be maintained much longer.

The rise of the teachers' unions in the 1970s has created another big question for the schools which is pressing for early resolution. The passage of a collective bargaining law for teachers as well as other public employees is likely at the coming session of the Legislature.

Will this lead to the day to cadets for their participation in ROTC. By the same token, it is good for the university to recognize the importance of our involvement in this program. We are proud to be doing our part in furthering the defense of our country."

day administration of the schools by the teachers instead of by the superintendents and principals? Many school administrators fear that it will. If so, how will this affect the quality of teaching, already under heavy criticism?

The 1980s should see the completion of Illinois' superhighway network, including several to serve long-neglected western Illinois. Extension of the Central Illinois Expressway from Jacksonville to Quincy is virtually assured. So is a new Chicago-to-Quincy link as part of a new interstate to Kansas City.

The long-promised road between Rockford and Decatur should become a reality. Perhaps an expressway connecting Springfield and Peoria, too.

Although tax reduction is now the rage, the problem of the 1980s will be how long Illinois can raise enough revenue to finance growing demands on its state government. A major tax increase of some kind appears unavoidable. Like it or not, you will probably be paying a much higher state income tax 10 years from now than you are today.

Any chance of the cost of state government going down? Forget about it. Also drop any hopes about the size of the Illinois Legislature being reduced. Illinois will lose at least one and possibly two congressmen because of a loss of population in the coming census.

Illinois politics offers all sorts of fascinating possibilities for the 1980s. Will Gov. James Thompson make it to the White House? Will Jane Byrne be re-elected mayor in 1983 and perhaps become the state's first woman governor or U.S. senator? Could she eventually become the first woman president?

It's going to be a rough and tough decade for Illinois, but at least it's not going to be dull.

Equipment specialists being sought

A program now under way at the Army Troop Support and Aviation Materiel Readiness Command (TSARCOM), 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., offers a special opportunity for employment in the federal civil service.

The command is seeking highly qualified equipment specialists with civilian or military experience related to troop support equipment, such as combat support systems, environmental control systems, petroleum, oil and lubricants distribution systems, and power generating systems. Positions being recruited for equipment specialists (general) at grades GS-9 and GS-11. Salaries start at $15,920 per year for GS-9, and $19,263 for GS-11.

"This recruitment effort provides an excellent employment opportunity, especially for Vietnam era veterans who have received their discharges from military service and who are interested in beginning a career in the federal civil service, and to retired military personnel interested in a second career," a spokesman said.

Although retired military members generally may not be appointed to a civilian position in federal civil service within 180 days of discharge, waivers will be requested in this case because of acute shortages in this field, it was explained. Persons interested in obtaining information about eligibility requirements and how to apply for these positions may call 314-263-2163 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Deficiencies in work compensation reimbursement system in this state

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois is failing to obtain reimbursement to which it is entitled in many workmen's compensation cases because the Department of Administration Services has failed to establish an adequate system for subrogation of claims, the state auditor general has charged.

Auditor General Robert Cronson's review of the collection of state revenue by the department for the fiscal year which ended last June 30 also shows $30,000 to $35,000 in personal checks and state warrants had been seen stored in cardboard boxes, unlogged by agency personnel and not kept in a locked, secure location.

Receipts in the Chicago office are not being deposited this month (January). Promptly, the audit showed, with the last deposits to the general revenue fund and the road fund, prior to the audit of the Chicago office on Oct. 11, had been on May 4, 1979 and Sept. 13, 1978, the report said.

The report said that workmen's compensation claims totalling $13,275,228 and $3,940,492 had been paid to injured state employees from the general revenue and road funds respectively, in the fiscal period audited.

In a situation where the injury was caused by someone other than the employee, the state is entitled to seek reimbursement for benefits paid through a process of subrogation, but "the department has not established an adequate system for the subrogation of these claims," the report shows. It urged that pay subrogation should be sought whenever applicable, because of the size of the payments.

The report cited instances of problems resulting from a lack of sufficient competent staff, including deficiencies in receipts, and duplicate payments.

Last May, the report noted, the department discontinued recording workmen's compensation receipts in the cash receipts book, while refunds of duplicate payments were being treated as if they were cash receipts, which distorted the cash receipt records.

The report shows that the department has indicated it is currently recruiting for a professional risk manager, and a total redesign of the system is now underway, scheduled for completion

Pontoon to keep park

Pontoon Beach will purchase Central Baptist Church, 3910 Highway 111 for a new village hall while retaining land originally purchased for a park, the village board decided Tuesday evening.

During a lengthy discussion, the board considered trading the park property east of Route 111 near Pontoon Road to the church as part of the sale, but Board President Paul Bennett stated, "I was against that from the start. The board also discussed purchasing the entire property the church owns around the church building, but decided to purchase only the church and the property it sits on," Bennett said.

Howard Percy of St. Louis and Chicago, financial advisor for the village, has secured bank financing for up to $100,000 for the village, at between eight and eight and one-half percent interest, for a 10-year loan, Bennett said.

He noted the church must have a survey of the property done and prepare a legal description before a contract for the sale can be prepared.

Bennett says he was told the village's audit reports for the 1977-78 and 1978-79 fiscal years will be completed by the board's next meeting. Certified Public Accountant Nathan C. Stein of Collinsville has been preparing the audit reports since November.

A break-up of the accounting firm which had been doing the village's books was blamed for failure to complete the audits on time.

"I hope they get them done. It's time to start on the next report already," Bennett said.

Waffle House is opened officially as a ribbon is cut by Walter "Dick" Sparks, center with scissors, Chouteau Township supervisor, Wednesday morning. The new restaurant is located next to the Chain of Rocks Motel on West Chain of Rocks Road at Route 3. Question cable TV rates

The Granite City Council Tuesday night received some good news and possibly some bad news from Southwestern Cable TV, which is planning to start cable service to Granite City in February.

The good news was that senior citizens, ages 65 and over, may have the service at a discount rate. The bad news is that the "home box office" rate for everyone else is higher than originally negotiated, aldermen said.

A letter from the company indicated that senior citizens may have cable TV for a $4 monthly basic rate and may add home box office movies for $5 per month and "tape II," another film offering, for $3 per month.

It noted the prices, totaling $12 per month if all three services are purchased, are significantly lower than the $21 per month persons under the age of 65 will have to pay for all three services.

The $21 figure is a combination of $7 per month basic service, $9 a month more for home box office, and $5 more each month for Tape II.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the aldermen, "This is good for the senior citizens, but, if I am not mistaken, they have raised the home box office from $7.50 to $9. This has not been approved by the council."

A Press-Record report of a July meeting shows the council approved a rate of $8.50 per month for home box office.

Alderman Sam Whitmer said he also is concerned because when the city negotiated the franchise agreement with Southwestern, the company said Federal Communications Commission regulations set the maximum franchise fee which could be paid the city at three percent.

"I have read in a newspaper recently where some places are getting five percent of the revenues," Whitmer contended.

Both questions were referred to Assistant City Attorney John Papa, who handled the legal work on the franchise agreement.

Unstable dollar helps, hurts Monsanto

Monsanto Company announced Tuesday that unaudited net sales for 1979 reached $6,195,000,000 or 23.4 percent over 1978 sales of $5,019,000,000.

Unaudited net income for 1979 was $331.1 million — up 9.4 percent from 1978's net income of $302.6 million. Primary earnings per common share were $9.11 as compared with $8.29 for 1978. Fully diluted earnings per common share were $9.03 as compared with $8.21 for 1978.

For the fourth quarter of 1979 was $10.9 million, down 75.2 percent from net income of $44.0 million reported for the comparable period in 1978.

John W. Hanley, chairman and president, said, "As we moved into 1979, we are relatively pleased at the progress we made in increasing our sales base, and in improving our year-to-year profits while absorbing the major losses implicit in our unsmoothed European nylon operations."

"We made progress in positioning Monsanto to capitalize on the profit growth for the decade of the 1980s, despite the fact that 1980 itself will be impacted by the recessionary factors that became so apparent of us late in the fourth quarter of 1979."

"Inventory corrections by customers resulted in a significant drop in shipments and a modest buildup in inventory at our own plants. Products for the automotive and residential construction industries in the U.S. were particularly hard hit. Concurrently high feedstock and raw material costs placed heavy pressure on profit margins."

"While the weakness of the U.S. dollar continued to stimulate export sales, it also resulted in a translation and exchange loss for the year, as our share in the fourth quarter. The major devaluation of the Brazilian real, however, had the largest impact," Hanley said.

Beating Carter Doctrine due to be tested alleged

Wall Street Journal — President Carter and his advisers are at work on a new foreign policy, responding to the now-clear need to protect American interests against Soviet aggressiveness and world turbulence. Laying aside what this says about their old foreign policy, what could they do that would make a difference?

What would be the general outlines of a Carter Doctrine? The last American policy was the Nixon Doctrine, which we think about the Soviet Union, what we do about our defense posture, what we expect from our allies and so on.

In addition, there is the immediate need to do something fast to counteract the looming threat to the Middle Eastern oil lanes. Steps can be taken in both areas, but they will require much political courage.

For the long term, the most important step is to rally the American people. It has been fashionable among foreign policy elites to claim that the people would not follow a tough policy, but at the moment the people are leading, pushing the elites toward toughness.

President to go before the people forthrightly to rally support was John F. Kennedy. If Mr. Carter were to get out ahead of the people and start to lead, nearly everyone would be astonished at how much he could accomplish.

The second clear long-term step is an increase in the defense budget of something in the neighborhood of 20 percent, or $30 billion, concentrated as much as possible in weapons procurement.

In procurement, the Russians have been outspending us by two to one, and this trend cannot continue without major changes in the world.

A 30 percent increase would be a large sacrifice, but far from an unsustainable one. Since we now spend less than 5 percent of GNP on defense, such an increase would still leave us below the 8 percent of GNP we spent in pre-Vietnam days.

A third long-term step would be to stop letting the Persian Gulf become a cruise missile with ranges like 2,000 kilometers, and we might have them by now had not the Saudis been so slow to comply with SALT.

The answer to the problem of our land-based missiles becoming vulnerable is not the cumbersome MX missile but an ABM system to protect the silos; the most sensitive systems are outlawed by SALT-I.

The short-term steps on the oil lanes are inhibited by the longer-term weakness of the Persian Gulf. A large part of the problem is the image of an irresolute and undependable United States, and this cannot be changed overnight. But the key is to base policy on our interests rather than on sentiments or domestic politics.

With the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, all eyes have suddenly focused on Pakistan. Partly because American policy there has been singularly inept, this is not a sturdy need.

But clearly we need to recognize that the key to making Pakistan a dependable ally is a guarantee of its territorial integrity not only against the Soviet Union but also against India.

During the last Indira Gandhi administration, India signed a friendship treaty with the Soviet Union, dismembered Pakistan and developed a nuclear bomb, which the U.S. has taken no sanctions, is the reason for Pakistan's growing importance in terms of a real presence in the area, we should wake up to the fact that we have an ally on the border of Iran with a half-million man army, excellent base facilities, a democratic government dominated by two pro-Western parties and membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Yet somehow in the discussions of the Middle ships to India. And to support non-proliferation policy and short that it does not pay to support Soviet aggression, nuclear fuel shipments to India should be stopped forthwith.

Bases in Oman and Somalia should be ordered as they have been offered, but we should recognize that these vulnerable outposts may not be available in a real crunch.

We should be talking with Egypt about a substantial American presence on the Sinai air bases. President Sadat is the world's wisest and most courageous leader; he will help us if we let him.

Finally, and perhaps most important in terms of a real presence in the area, we should wake up to the fact that we have an ally on the border of Iran with a half-million man army, excellent base facilities, a democratic government dominated by two pro-Western parties and membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Whether the tough choices are made will tell whether the Carter Doctrine is for real.

East, Turkey is never mentioned.

We have bungled our relations with the Turks even worse than our relations with the Pakistanis, cutting off arms aid over the Cyprus dispute.

We should mend our relations, bailing Turkey out of its current economic distress, working later to get its economy on sounder footing, and working now to get the bases and military cooperation we so urgently need.

These are tough choices — choosing Turkey over the Greek lobby, sending American forces abroad to Egypt and Oman, supporting Pakistan despite sentimental attachments to India, spending a lot more on defense, telling the people they are in danger.

But they are the choices that will tell whether the new policies are intended to make a difference in the world or merely to placate an aroused public.

Stolen police car chased

A 24-year-old Washington Park man arrested last week for allegedly stealing a Bi-State bus in Washington Park and abandoning it in Pontoon Beach was arrested again last night in a stolen Washington Park police car, following a lengthy chase, authorities alleged today.

David Fitch was being held today by Washington Park officers on charges of felony theft, attempting to elude police, reckless conduct, criminal damage to property, driving while license was suspended and possession of cannabis.

Authorities allege he was chased from Washington Park on Route 111 into the Granite City area, south of Pontoon Beach, then he turned south on Interstate 70 and turned east. Seventeen police cars from various departments participated in the chase and in four roadblocks, which the stolen police car eluded.

The incident began at 8 p.m. yesterday while Washington Park officers were answering a family disturbance report. One of the squad cars running. A young man got into the squad car and drove north on Route 111. Another Washington Park police car followed the stolen squad car and radioed for assistance from the state police and other area police departments.

After turning away from the Quad-City area and being chased east on Interstate 70, the stolen car turned north on Route 159, running a roadblock and striking a Collinsville police car, authorities reported.

The chase continued north on Route 159 until the stolen squad car turned east on Interstate 270, with a state police car and the other Washington Park car in pursuit.

Just north of Troy, another state police car drove from a ramp in front of the stolen vehicle, which then stopped, troopers said.

A moment later, the stolen vehicle drove into the state police car in front of it and then backed into the state car behind it, it was alleged.

The driver was apprehended by Troopers Rich Klekamp and Kevin Stallard and Washington Park Patrolmen Phil Delaney and Frank Franklin at that point.

About a week ago, authorities were searching for a Bi-State bus which had been stolen from Washington Park and residents of Marigold Drive in Pontoon Beach told police a bus had been abandoned on their street. Officers arrested Fetch at Smokey Joe's Tavern and turned him over to Washington Park police in connection with the theft of the bus, authorities said.

Whether the tough choices are made will tell whether the Carter Doctrine is for real.

Nameoki Presbyterian congregation to meet

The annual congregational meeting of the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church will be convened at 12:22 p.m. Sunday by the Rev. Dr. F. Pierson, pastor, at the church, 1700 Pontoon Road.

Mrs. Larry (Mindy) Haughey, president of the Board of Deacons, announced that homemade vegetable beef soup will be prepared and served by the deacons to start the meeting.

Mrs. William (Nona) Corzilius, clerk of the congregation and church administrator, has compiled a report for each family, consisting of individual papers prepared by the church commissions.

Commission leaders, all members of the Session, will make verbal presentations to the congregation.

Mrs. Fred (Muriel) Fossick, treasurer of the Church Remodeling Fund, has reported that one of the substantial loans for remodeling, undertaken in 1975, has been retired. Plans call for the retirement of the remaining $8,000 balance in remodeling loans this year.

An excellent year in stewardship and growing mission awareness of the congregation is noted by Mrs. Robert (Patricia) Fossick, treasurer.

Key commissions of the church in 1980 are being headed by: Mrs. Harold (Joyce) Toussaint, Worship and Sacrament Commission; Kenneth Aud, Social and Community Concern; Mrs. Wayne (Marilyn) Price, Pastoral Concern and Membership.

Charles Bosworth Jr., Evangelism and Outreach; Elmer Goode, Mission and Interpretation; Bill Widows, Buildings and Grounds; and Al Bagi, Christian and Youth.

Rev. Pierson, session moderator, said the church provides a wide variety of worship and fellowship opportunities for divergent ages and interests.

The Board of Deacons has provided an all-church fellowship event each month throughout the past year, thereby helping to strengthen the "caring" fellowship that marks the congregation, the pastor said.

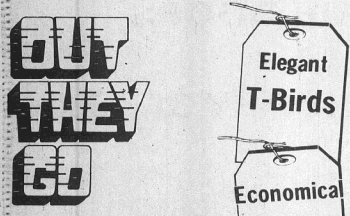

He invited interested persons to attend Sunday morning worship services at 10:45.

The current series of messages is entitled, "The Power Within You." Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m., and the Youth Fellowship group meets at 4 p.m. each Sunday.

Health programs are planned in Madison

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk informed the Madison City Council at its Tuesday evening meeting that the Illinois Department of Public Health would like to do a house-to-house study of lead poisoning. Similar studies are in progress in Granite City.

"I think this could be very beneficial to our children if the lead control project is conducted," Sasyk said.

"It is always difficult to convince people to participate in this type of study, particularly when the health officials come directly to the home."

"The health department is primarily interested in checking children from ages one to six," Sasyk said.

The council concurred with the mayor on the importance of the testing and gave approval for the tests.

Dates and details of the program will be announced at a later time.

The council also discussed the holding of a "Health Fair" tentatively set for Saturday, April 26, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

This program will be of a screening nature by trained professionals for eyesight, hearing, blood pressure and other common, but sometimes undetected, medical problems.

"This should in no way be taken for a complete physical exam, but it should help people detect some potential problems in an early stage," Mayor Sasyk said.

The program is being promoted in the greater St. Louis area by radio station KSDK, Blue Cross and area hospitals, according to the mayor.

"The testing is free, but to set up the program and purchase needed supplies there will be a cost of somewhere between $500 and $700."

"We will also need volunteer workers that day to help transport seniors, citizens, register the people and do numerous tasks. And we will also need some professional nurses to donate some time," Sasyk said.

Madison Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads said the fire department will help with the project and it was noted that Explorer Post 104 will also assist.

The council approved an annual report and request for $54,000 in motor fuel tax monies for use in maintenance of state approved roads.

The request will now be sent to the district engineer's office representing the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The money will be for repairs from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1980.

An informational letter from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) informing the council that an air pollution study is being conducted in Madison County was read.

The EPA has asked the city for opinions on any reclassifications that should be made.

John Lake was approved by the council as a fire department cadet, on the recommendation of Chief Rhoads.

A letter from County Clerk Evelyn Bowles advised the city of tax objections being filed. The objections are from the railways and Consolidated Aluminum Corp. The letter was referred to City Attorney Casper S. Nighel.

City Building Inspector John Dutko requested condemnation of a house at 1315 Iowa St. In a letter read to the council, Dutko alleged the owner of the property refused to improve the property.

The council approved the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission doing a study of possible uses of the Dunbar elementary school.

The Madison School District, Venice Township and City of Venice, in addition to Madison, will share the cost of the study, which will be less than $200 each. When the new Madison middle school is completed, the use of Dunbar school is to be decided.

Alton Box sales higher

Alton Box Board Co. announced Tuesday that sales for the fourth quarter of 1979 were $78,353,000 compared with $67,267,000 a year ago. Net income for the 1979 quarter was $629,000 or 27 cents per share. In the same quarter of 1978, net income was $1,260,000 or 56 cents per share.

Net income in the fourth quarter of 1978, after the extraordinary charge related to anti-trust actions, was a loss of $1,690,000, or 74 cents per share.

Net sales for the year which ended Dec. 31, 1979, were a record $301,383,000, compared with $260,710,000 in 1978. Net income was $3,663,000 or $1.60 per share as compared with $1,379,000 or 61 cents per share in 1978, before extraordinary charges. After extraordinary charges of $2,950,000, 1978 results were a net loss of $1,571,000, or 69 cents per share.

LOOT GARAGE, VAN

A $65 CB radio, a $50 combination stereo radio and tape player and five speakers were stolen from the van of Kenneth Phillips, 1860 Poplar St., parked at his home, it was discovered at 10:15 p.m. Tuesday. A window to the van was broken. A door to Phillips' garage also was forced open and two drills, a power saw, a power sander, a router and various hand tools were stolen.

Senior club leaders take office

New officers of the Golden Agers Senior Citizens Club conducted their first business meeting of the new year Tuesday afternoon at the Kirkpatrick Homes Recreation Center.

President Ruby Corbitt introduced the 1980 club leaders—Martin Schulte, vice president; Carrie Hart, secretary; Juanita Crawley, treasurer; and Caroline Lux, sunshine chairman. It was announced that "circuit breaker" tax relief forms for seniors are available at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave., with Mrs. Corbitt providing assistance in completing the forms at that location.

Those eligible for the tax break are senior citizens, 65 years and over, whose annual income is less than $10,000, the club president advised.

The annual Senior Citizen's Fair, sponsored each March at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been postponed this year until September, it was reported.

Members were reminded that items to be offered at the fair still may be donated.

Plans also were made to update the club's membership roster.

Loretta Thomas, a guest, was welcomed and birthday greetings were extended to Viola Scrivner, Clyde Myers, Art Rankin, Emma Gobbie and Filomena Gruber.

After the business session, coffee and cake were served to 36 members and games were played.

Winning prizes were Ruth Purkey, Clara Carney, Opal Voss, Edsel Stark, Minnie Kuschmitz, Art Lindner and Mrs. Crawley.

Assisting in the kitchen were Tom Crawley, Loretta Wyszok and Mrs. Gobbie.

Reading workshop set in Belleville

The Dr. Charles L. Shedd Reading Association will conduct a reading workshop Sunday in the Oak Community Room at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, 211 S. Third St., Belleville.

A discussion of the characteristics of a child who is having reading problems in school will take place during the afternoon from 1 to 3.

All things work together for good. Hard to believe, isn't it? Nevertheless, it is so. First, because all things are under the absolute control of our Heavenly Father. Second, because God desires only good things for us. Third, because even Satan himself cannot touch a hair of our heads without God's permission, and then only for our good.
Not all things are good in themselves, nor in their tendencies; but, God makes all things work for our good.

County ratification meeting tomorrow

A special meeting of the Madison County Board has been called for 5 p.m. Friday at the county courthouse in Edwardsville to ratify a new contract for county clerical employees, who went on strike briefly last week.

At a public meeting Monday, the county's financial outlook was discussed with negotiators for American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799, which represents about 250 county employees, mostly secretaries.

Following the public meeting, negotiators for the union and the county board met privately to discuss the financial issue. Also attending were Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagmann and Granite City and State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron.

After the private meeting, Hagmann called the special meeting of the county board for tomorrow.

Failure by the board to ratify a tentative agreement with the union Jan. 16 led to a two-hour strike Thursday morning, Jan. 17, by about 250 members of the union.

The workers returned to their jobs when Hagmann assured them that meetings would be held to break the impasse.

The tentative agreement calls for county workers to receive a 30-cent-per-hour increase in their base pay, plus a cost-of-living increase linked to inflation.

At the Jan. 16 meeting, County Board Member Frank Dalton of Collinsville, who is on the finance committee, predicted that approval of the document would cause a $130,000 deficit in county funds by the end of the fiscal year Nov. 30, 1980. Negotiating Committee Chairman Herbert Milton Jr. of Granite City disagreed.

Aspen, Volare at area assembly plant

Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare car names will appear along with Chrysler LeBaron and Dodge Diplomat on the assembly line at Chrysler Corp.'s St. Louis car assembly plant, beginning this week.

Allen F. Scudder, plant manager, said the first production of 1980 two-door Aspen and Volare coupes at the assembly plant in Fenton is in progress.

The first compact car to be driven off the line is a white two-door Aspen Value coupe sold to Geraldine Stokes of Detroit by Raynal Brothers, Dodge dealers in Detroit.

The St. Louis plant initially produced the Aspen and Volare car lines in 1976. Scudder said the assembly plant built a total of 90,555 Aspens and Volares from September 1976 to March 1977, at which time it switched over to making the intermediate-size Chrysler LeBarons and Dodge Diplomats.

Since the introduction of Aspen and Volare in the 1976 model year, 2,120,852 have been produced at Chrysler Corp. assembly plants.

Quad-Cityans' and Americans' life style is 'energetic'

ENERGY AND THE WAY WE LIVE: 1. OUR ENERGETIC LIFESTYLE. By DOROTHY K. NEWMAN. (EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of 15 articles exploring "Energy and the Way We Live." In this article, socio-economist Dorothy K. Newman contrasts energy use among rich and poor Americans and proposes some measures to ensure conservation. This series, written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program of University Extension, University of California, San Diego, was funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, with supplemental funding from the National Science Foundation.)

Copyright © 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.

Americans are the world's most gluttonous energy consumers. With about 5 percent of the world's population, we gobble up one-third of all energy used in the world.

We self-righteously chide Third World countries for too rapid population growth, while if we add our cars to our human population, the total is increasing much faster than are Third World populations.

Adding cars to people for assessing growth may seem outrageous. But cars use far more nonrenewable organic materials per year than people do. Besides, cars are extensions of Americans, adding them to people is merely giving cars their rightful place in our culture. Furthermore, this arithmetic emphasizes that our energy use is directly tied to our lifestyles. Public policies to save energy must therefore take into account whether or how to change lifestyles, for the evidence indicates that those Americans who use most energy are unwilling to make voluntary sacrifices for conservation. Conservation has been effective only when backed by law.

HOW MUCH WE USE. The things we buy, use and repair, and the services we demand for our communities, consume huge amounts of energy that do not appear on household utility bills or on gas pump meters, which measure direct energy use. But we use four times as much indirect energy to maintain our lifestyle.

You can figure out our own energy consumption by using a Lifestyle Index, developed by Albert J. Fritsch of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, which provides an energy factor for every item one uses, each activity engaged in, and each service provided.

For instance, clothing involves energy costs in making the fabric, and designing, sewing, and shipping the garment. If you charge it instead of paying cash, the costs in billing machine usage, paper, and postage must be added. Or take government services: We must assume our share of energy in keeping offices running, roads repaired, police on the beat, and trash removed.

Food and grocery packaging is especially energy intensive. We must account not just for soda pop, but for the bottle and everything that led up to the final product, including the ads and neon signs that say it's refreshing. And it's not just running an automobile that we must consider, but the steel, chrome, rubber, plastics, glass, upholstery, and the energy used to make all the other parts and extras.

WHO USES MOST. The not-so-obvious significance of the appliance index is its almost perfect correlation with total energy use by the household. It is a symbol of lifestyle. The high appliance index household tends to be an energy gobbler, the low appliance user is an energy conservator.

Such a conservator, however, used energy sparingly, not with the goal of energy conservation, but because the household cannot afford the cost of energy even of enough energy for health and minimal comfort.

CONSERVATION PROBLEMS. This is a critical distinction. It is evident in the paradox that the rich conserve the most energy by adding insulating features to their homes, but they also use the most energy. Low-income households, on the other hand — called "non-conservers" by some — are most often renters; they have no opportunity for such conservation measures, or they cannot afford the initial expense of even fundamental weatherizing in anticipation of future savings.

A comparison of households before and after the oil embargo shows that the most likely to have reduced their heating and cooling loss made energy-intensive kinds additions simultaneously, thereby cancelling their energy savings. These are the very households where conservation can make the most difference, but their voluntary energy saving appears inextricably mixed with the appeal of greater comfort and ostentation in living standards.

The automobile is a good example. About half of all energy households consume is for transportation, mostly by auto. Half of all low-income households have no car; those who have, use it chiefly to get to work. Jobs have spread out, making it more evident than ever that public transit systems have earned the jibe, "You can't get there from here."

Upper-middle and high-income households have two or more cars, use several times as much gasoline as others do, drive larger and newer cars more miles, and take more long trips, by air as well as by automobile. The energy-intensive transportation lifestyle of the well-off did not decline after the oil embargo.

Only those with few resources use energy sparingly. They cannot conserve very much on their own, and they need help to protect them from energy disadvantage.

POLICY IMPLICATIONS. So far, major changes in energy policy stress making everything more costly, but high prices alone do not deter the American high energy consumer, who has the most leeway for spending or saving both energy and money. Such policies only perpetuate our current energy lifestyle.

How, then, can lifestyles be changed? Conservation must begin where lifestyle is shaped — where wrappings become fancier, car styles numerous and ever changing, apartments and houses advertised for their "luxury" features, and new buildings constructed and furnished to impress us with their opulence.

Energy-saving is a hard-sell to Americans. Such a hard-sell requires hard-nosed policies that are clear and fair, including gasoline rationing; a federal tax on inefficient and nonessential vehicles, with proceeds to be used for developing community-connecting transit systems; tax advantages for building or retrofitting structures according to

AN ABUNDANCE OF APPLIANCES. The number and kinds of appliances that Americans use tend to increase as income increases.

Postpone Maeras hearing one week

Yesterday's scheduled hearing in federal court to determine whether former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras should be sentenced for his February 1979 racketeering conviction was postponed until Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 9 a.m. in federal court at Alton.

An indefinite stay of sentencing was granted Maeras in May by Federal District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman after testimony from doctors who said Maeras was suffering from terminal brain and lung cancer. They estimated he had four to six months to live at that time.

U.S. District Attorney Gerald Fines, who prosecuted Maeras and asked Judge Ackerman in December to schedule a "status call" hearing on Maeras' health. Ackerman scheduled the hearing for yesterday, but then notified court officials his appointments in Springfield prohibited him from being in Alton yesterday, so the hearing was rescheduled.

Momentum for growth, progress at Tri-City YMCA

Reports at the annual meeting of the Tri-City Area YMCA Monday afternoon in the "Y" auditorium showed the progress that has been made under the leadership of President John E. Lee III, Executive Director Paul Grennell and their predecessors.

In the category of participating members, from 1976 through 1979, youth membership has risen from 326 to 350 to 459 and 563, and adult membership from 186 to 385 to 515 and 1,080 at present.

Program participants during this same span of time have increased from 3,179 to 7,629 to 8,984 in 1978 and to 9,423 in the year just ended. There has been increased involvement by senior citizens, photography hobbyists, dog owners, soccer players, gymnasts, individual swimmers, swimming team members, day campers, Youth Basketball Association youngsters, dancers, volleyball players, basketball league members and fitness enthusiasts. Average daily program attendance has risen from 85 to 124 to 217 and to 385 in 1979.

In addition to such statistical comparisons, there were successful ventures during the past year in senior citizen fitness and aquatic programs, informal education, adult swimming, arcade activities, family programs, scuba diving, judo instruction and pre-school activities. Racquetball has caught on in a big way, and the "Y" courts usually are busy.

Contributing members have grown from 21 in 1978 to 45 in 1979 (Friend of Youth 15 to 31, and Century Club six to 14).

Annual income for the past four years has moved from $148,442 to $172,096 to $200,082 to $209,420.

Expenses, of course, also are higher. And the YMCA is not wholly lacking in problems. But community headway has been made, and the general outlook is encouraging if a positive, "can do" approach is continued.

For the local "Y," marks 61 years of service, among those deserving of credit for the forward momentum is Grennell, who is preparing to return to his home town of Ithaca, N. Y., to direct the "Y" there and its current planning for new facilities.

Quad-Cityans wish him well—and hope to find a Paul Grennell "clone" to take up the YMCA duties here.

Blending gasohol, food production will require skill

Press-Record Washington Bureau — It was timely from a political standpoint that the Carter Administration to announce an accelerated program to produce gasohol when farmers and grain dealers are grumbling about the embargo on sales of corn and wheat to the Soviet Union.

But the administration concedes that this timeliness is the only link between current grain surpluses and the use of grain-based alcohol to stretch out gasoline supplies.

The gasohol program is still too nebulous to absorb any of the 17 million tons of grain being diverted from shipment to the Soviet.

The country simply does not have the capacity in its distilleries to convert that much grain into alcohol, nor is the system for distribution and sale of gasohol capable of handling an output of that magnitude.

Nevertheless, the new program points to the potential for gasohol to figure in the formation of our future agriculture and trade policies.

The concept of agricultural surpluses — a perennial problem in stabilizing the price of farm products — can be viewed in a different light if there is a network of alcohol plants available to create a new energy product out of grain or other crops.

'Bare bones' budget for sanitary district

The Metro-East Sanitary District approved a budget Monday which could pull the district out of debt for the first time in many years, but there is concern that putting the district in the black could result in a "black eye" for the board if there are insufficient funds to protect the area from spring flooding.

A budget of $2.1 million was adopted by the board, which is more than $1 million below the $3.14 million budget for the previous fiscal year.

Chairman Russell Robinson explained the largest single cut is elimination of the reconstruction of the Cahokia trunk line from the district's projects. Despite a federal grant paying most of the cost, the trunk line reconstruction the district was finding it difficult to meet its share of the cost, so the project had to be abandoned.

The new budget includes $30,000 for an executive director and $25,300 for a district engineer, although the district currently has neither. Robinson said a director is badly needed, but attempts to find qualified applicants have been unsuccessful. He is hopeful the district can save money by hiring an executive director who can handle both jobs, thus saving the engineer's salary.

Financial problems have caused the district to lay off 42 workers and operate on a skeleton staff. The damage from last spring has not been repaired, endangering several areas, including Cahokia, where failure to complete the trunk line may endanger the city's sewer system, if there is a flood.

It is hoped that most of the estimated $700,000 in flood-related damage to the district's levees will qualify for federal disaster reimbursements, but only $150,000 has been received from the federal government, thus far, to help in repairing the damage.

Carl Baczenas, chairman of the district's levee committee, said the district is badly needed, but attempts to find qualified applicants have been unsuccessful. He is hopeful the district can save money by hiring an executive director who can handle both jobs, thus saving the engineer's salary.

Need for store restrooms noted

To the Editor:

Our Downtown Development Committee has considered many and varied problems in its efforts to improve the downtown area of Granite City, but none with the basic and elementary aspects of the one that was brought before our group at its last meeting: There are no toilets available to the public in the downtown area.

That may seem a minor problem to those of us who are employed in the area — we can use the facilities where we work. But what about the mother with young children who takes them along shopping in downtown Granite City? Or the senior citizen?

There are no public restrooms in this area — and they would be of

APPEALS LAWYER

Gottfried for the defense

By ANDY LINDSTROM

SPRINGFIELD — It's guys like Ted Gottfried who take the kick out of being a cop.

"French Connection," then you would know what this decision is all about.

Gottfried explains, thumbing through a thick sheaf of papers headed "Office of the Clerk/Supreme Court of the United States."

"You know, just like the scene where the tough cop, Popeye Doyle, frisks everybody in the bar and comes up with the dope."

The glass door leading into Gottfried's office reads "State Appellate Defender."

"The police officers go into this bar with a search warrant for the bartender, after an informant states the bartender has tin foil packets of heroin on his person."

The stapled papers are addressed to the clerk of the Illinois District Appellate Court in Elgin, Re: Ventura E. Ybarra v. Illinois, No. 78-5037, Your No. 78-483.

"They proceed to search everybody in the bar and find a cigarette pack with six tin foil packets of heroin on Mr. Ybarra."

Gottfried leans back in his chair. Broad-shouldered and cut from the rugged mold of a European art-film hero, with his black, longish hair parted down the middle and cascading over each ear, he reminds one of a Polish Don Corleone, quietly weighing against tales of injustice against the Godfather's family.

We argued that Mr. Ybarra's constitutional rights had been violated. We're not trying to get him off on a technicality. We want to suppress illegally seized evidence because we think the Bill of Rights is more important."

The Supreme Court decision is dated Nov. 28, 1979. Dividing 6-3 on the issue, the court ruled that Ybarra's Fourth and 14th Amendments had been violated.

"It's the first time that we've argued in the Supreme Court and won."

An Appellate Court, the Supreme Court said the police officer had no probable cause to search anyone except the bartender, that frisking Ybarra for a weapon lacked a reasonable belief he was armed and dangerous, and that heroin packets found on Ybarra could not be used as evidence against him.

Popeye would be enraged. But Gottfried chalks it up as one small victory for the American way of justice.

"You know Al Pacino's new movie, 'And Justice For All'? A lot of people criticized it as being unbelievable. They say law doesn't work that way."

"Well, I came up in the big-city courts — Cook County Public Court at 28th and California in Chicago — and I was shocked, when I first went there, at how the system works."

"I would see a rookie police officer testify that he had taken evidence from a suspect's pocket and have the judge throw the case right out of court.

"The next time in court, that officer would say, 'I observed the defendant throw this object to the ground, and I kept my eyes on the object and it turned out to be a marijuana cigarette.'"

"The poor guy picked up for possession knew the cop took it out of his pocket, same as before, and he knew he'd been caught again with narcotics."

"He didn't know what difference it made how the evidence was gathered, or that his rights had just been violated, so he just scratched his head and wondered what the hell the cop was talking about."

Gottfried knew what was happening, and, as an appeals lawyer in the Cook County Public Defender's Office, he knew the difference between a suspect and a convict.

"Everyone in society seems determined to put these people away," he says. "Well, even an undesirable has a right to a fair trial and a right to appeal."

Critics in the Constitution you know, even if some people don't like it. In the past, judges used to assign private lawyers to appeals for indigents — persons unable to pay — but now our office handles probably 95 percent of the downstate cases.

Private lawyers often proved poor counsel for their clients because the pay was low, the paperwork was monumental and the rewards hardly matched an effective imitation of F. Lee Bailey.

There was an Illinois Public Defenders Association, but it was mostly in the Chicago area. Then, in 1970, we applied for state money to hold training seminars.

"But John Irving with the Illinois Law Enforcement Center asked, 'Why not get for millions instead of a few thousand and see what you can do for the problems of the whole state?'"

"So we applied for a federal grant and started a Trial Appellate Office down in Cairo, where there was a lot of unrest and a lot of interest on the part of the governor to get it resolved."

For three years Gottfried headed the Illinois defender project, which handled literally thousands of appeals in state and federal courts.

The results were impressive that the 1972 State Appellate Defender Act converted the project into permanent fixture. The Supreme Court named Gottfried the first public defender, with about 30 associate lawyers in five state districts. He was reappointed in 1976 to a second four-year term.

And his office, in addition to handling 1,361 cases in fiscal year 1979, publishes a monthly digest of recent court decisions, runs training seminars for attorneys and distributes the authoritative Illinois criminal decisions online.

"Their work has been very effective and it's more innovative," says Illinois Supreme Court Chief Justice Joseph Goldenhersh.

Draft registration planned

President Jimmy Carter in his annual State of the Union address last night to congressmen and senators said he plans to reinstitute registration of young men 18 to 26 years old.

Carter called for legislative authority to order mobilization through draft inductions, if necessary.

The selective service program is drawing mixed reaction from those who would be directly affected. Some say they would prefer to concentrate on schooling or jobs, while others voice readiness to report for duty in the armed services.

The president in his talk warned the Soviet Union that the U. S. will go to war if needed to prevent Soviet domination of the oil-rich Persian Gulf area. He also is opposing U. S. participation in the Moscow summer Olympics if Russia does not withdraw its troops from Afghanistan by mid-February.

3-way venture at Depot

Despite published reports to the contrary, three local governmental entities remain active in the effort to develop an industrial park on property now forming the southeast corner of the Granite City Army Installation, sources said today.

Those involved are the City of Granite City, City of Madison and Tri-City Regional Port District, it was learned.

Granite City is proceeding with General Services Administration contacts as the "umbrella agency" that will, among other things, seek to arrange financing and deal with a series of tasks outlined by the GSA, including separation of utilities from those serving the remainder of the Army base.

The federal government seeks nearly $3 million for the property. Such funds are to be derived from commitments by tenants for the various buildings and tracts.

Major school energy conservation program

More than $8 million soon will be distributed to Illinois schools participating in a state-sponsored energy conservation program, it was announced during the weekend by Frank Beal, director of the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources (INR).

Quadrant area schools are submitting data to the state as part of the initial phases of the program.

"Before the end of March, INR expects that $8.6 million in grant funds will have been released to Illinois schools by the U.S. Department of Energy," Beal said.

"This represents the first step in a program that will help reduce energy costs for schools, and for the taxpayers and donors who support those schools."

Ultimately, up to $30 million in federal funds will be available over a three-year period to help Illinois schools pay the costs of insulation, furnace improvements and other physical changes which can increase energy efficiency, Beal said.

The capital improvements are part of a comprehensive program which also includes energy conservation training for school personnel, and inspections to determine the need for physical improvements.

The program is being administered in cooperation with the Illinois Office of Education.

To date, 3,400 school administrators and maintenance personnel have taken training courses designed to pinpoint energy conservation practices that can be incorporated into daily operating procedures at schools.

A second round of training will begin Feb. 1, and any interested school districts, colleges and universities — both public and private school systems — are eligible to participate.

After learning daily techniques which are said to conserve up to 25 percent of the energy used in the average school, trained personnel participate in on-site inspections.

The inspections help determine the effectiveness and costs of physical changes that can be made to further increase energy efficiency.

Results of the inspections may be incorporated into applications for grant money that can help pay for these improvements which can be justified in terms of energy savings.

Schools enrolling in the program before May 1 will be eligible to share in another $8 million in capital improvement grants.

"Energy conservation in schools is a paying proposition," Beal said.

It is possible through daily attention to lighting, heating and other energy-consuming activities to save up to $37 million of the $150 million now being spent each year for energy in Illinois schools, according to our estimates."

Thus far, 45 school districts, individual private schools, colleges and universities have participated in the program and have applied for funding.

A similar program is under way for hospitals, and 14 such institutions have enrolled to date.

On June 1, INR will no longer accept applications for the program.

"A strong start has been made toward making our schools more energy efficient, and energy costs will be lower than they would have been otherwise," Beal said.

"It is an important part of a broader effort to increase energy efficiency in the public, private and business communities within Illinois."

These schools which have not yet participated in the program may sign up by contacting the Institute of Natural Resources, 325 W. Adams St., Springfield, Ill. 62706 (telephone 217-785-8570).

Mehelic defends games

Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic disagreed Tuesday with an allegation that there is a poker game in the highway department garage on some weekday afternoons.

Mehelic told the Press-Record, "Sometimes I play a little gin (rummy). When someone comes by and wants to sell me something, I might ask if he would like to play some gin and he might say, 'Well, I have an hour or so, so we'll play.'"

He added, "I don't see anything wrong with it."

He criticized the allegation, saying, "I know who is behind it, and it is political." Mehelic is running for precinct committeeman.

He said he is an elected official and others cannot tell him how to run his department. "If I want to play a game of gin, it is not up to them to stop me," he told the Press-Record.

"I think they play gin in almost every municipality. I get my work done, so I don't see anything wrong with it," he concluded.

Predicts Congress will allow negotiable orders of withdrawal

Savings and loan associations will soon be competing directly for checking as well as savings account business, Bruce A. Bugbee, principal in the New York office of Post, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., said in St. Louis last week at a seminar on "NOW" accounts, or interest-bearing checking accounts.

Bugbee, who has national management consulting responsibility for PMM's savings and loan practice, said Congress is expected to pass legislation this year enabling savings and loan associations across the United States to offer NOW (Negotiable Order of Withdrawal) accounts to the public.

"Based on results of a six-year trial period in the New England states," Bugbee said, "seven out of every ten families in Massachusetts and 50 percent of all families in New England opened NOW accounts."

Savings institutions will become much more competitive with commercial banks as S&L's offer interest-bearing checking accounts and banks respond by adding interest to their current checking accounts, Bugbee said.

"Commercial banks already have the knowledge and built-in cost structure for check processing," explained Daniel S. Reilly, St. Louis partner-in-charge of the savings and loan practice for PMM, "so they must now assume the added cost of interest payments. Savings and loan associations, on the other hand, already pay interest on their accounts, but have little experience with check processing."

Bugbee warned the more than 100 seminar attendees, representing management at savings institutions from all over the Midwest, to look at their own marketplace to help them decide whether and how to offer NOW accounts.

As an example, he cited the Boston experience, which has proven to be much more competitive than in Providence, R.I.

In St. Louis, as for most major metropolitan areas, Bugbee predicts a highly competitive market.

"You may be forced to adopt an aggressive marketing strategy in the face of competition," he said. "Don't be hesitant to attract accounts and market share through heavy promotion and liberal pricing policies, two approaches which have proven valuable in the New England market," he said.

Madison County sheriff to move from past to the future

Photos and text by W. F. 'Mick' Strange

A marked contrast exists between the 111-year-old Madison County jail and the ultra-modern jail and sheriff's facility under construction in Edwardsville.

Members of Explorer Post 10-4 toured both facilities last week as guests of Lieutenant Jack Fields, jail superintendent, and Madison County Sheriff Emil Tofant.

are about to experience as they enter the old jail.

It was noted by Lt. Fields that in the old facility, suspected murderers, rapists and other potential felons have had to be housed with traffic offenders.

By contrast, the new jail will allow housing by classification of offense and use of individual cells.

At the top right, plumbing in one of the new cell blocks is pictured. A plumber will not have to enter any cell to make repairs.

The new control panel, partially shown in the lower left picture, looks almost like something out of "Star Wars."

The all-electric jail is operated almost entirely from the panel, which is housed behind bullet proof glass.

The new jail building has an alternate generator, should the electric power go off.

The Police Explorers, in the lower right view, walk between cell blocks.

Constant patrol by jail guards in the walkway can give the guards an unobscured view of each cell. Two sets of bars separate the prisoners from the guard walkway.

The $4.6 million dollar building will accommodate the entire operation of the Madison County sheriff's department, in addition to the jail.

The jail section of the building will house 96 male prisoners and 14 females.

Juveniles will not be kept here, but will continue to be held in the county detention center.

The new building is almost three city blocks long and two city blocks wide.

The facility meets the standards set forth by the Illinois Department of Corrections.

Sheriff's department officials are anticipating being in the building within the next two to three months.

Hearing on future of former rail corridors

State Senator Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville) has been named chairman of a special six-member subcommittee of the Illinois Transportation Study Commission which will evaluate the desirability of establishing a state program in Illinois to acquire certain abandoned railroad rights-of-way for public use purposes.

Potential purposes are future transportation corridors, recreation, natural area preservation, wildlife habitat, and public utilities. Currently, both

Wisconsin and Michigan have such programs.

The special study was called for by House Resolution 332.

Sen. Vadala said, "It is obvious that once these rights-of-way are abandoned by the railroads and have passed into private ownership, it will be difficult or impossible to re-establish these corridors if they are needed for public use in the future."

He noted, however, that in some cases such public use competes with the desire of adjacent landowners to acquire abandoned rights-of-way — usually for agricultural purposes.

"Therefore," he said, "we have scheduled a public hearing in Edwardsville to take testimony from all interested parties in Southern Illinois — pro or con — concerning their views on this matter."

The hearing will be held at the Edwardsville Holiday Inn, 1-270 and Illinois 157, in the Edwards I and II rooms, beginning at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 5.

One of the rights-of-way enters Madison County from the northeast and extends between Collinsville and Edwardsville.

Auditions for musical talent

If there are any budding Barbra Streisands or Bob Dylans among the students, faculty and staff of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, let them come forward now or forever hold their harmonicas.

Aspiring performers will get their chance during Center Stage, an informal concert house beginning in February at SIUE. All types of musical entertainment will be considered, and non-university talent may also audition.

Audition slips are available at the University Center Board office or "Union Station," and must be returned by Jan. 29.

Auditions will be held Feb. 5-7 in the Mississippi Room on the second floor of the University Center.

Times for the auditions are 5-7 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 5, and after 3 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 6 and 7.

All participants must audition with a 10-15 minute program.

Sweetheart dance to benefit scouts

Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council adult leaders (scouters) and friends are being invited to the Kickapoo District annual Sweetheart Dance and Fun Night by Mrs. Becky Wheeler, chairman.

The event is scheduled Friday, Feb. 15, at the Lindendale Park Ballroom, Highland, from 8 p.m. until midnight.

The cost is $6 per person and tickets may be obtained at the Boy Scout Service Center, 2016 Delmar Ave. Proceeds from the evening will be used to help support the Boy Scout program throughout the entire council.

Music will be provided by Paul Tailleux and the Twilights.

The purpose of the evening is to give all the scouts, parents of Cubs, Scouts and Explorers, or any friend of scouting who cares to attend, an opportunity to come together for a little fun and fellowship," Mrs. Wheeler said.

More information may be obtained by telephoning the Boy Scout office, 876-0686.

New leaders in cage polls

GRANITE CITY — There are two new leaders in this week's Press-Record — Herald prep basketball coaches' polls. It was an eventful week past, to say the least in area high school basketball.

Lovejoy (Brooklyn), by virtue of a stunning upset of Madison in the Dupo Tournament, and Alton, after whipping Collinsville, are the new pace-setters in Class A and Aa, respectively.

In fact, in Class AA, Collinsville, last week's unanimous top pick, was relegated to third and did not get a single first place nod. How soon they forget. East St. Louis Lincoln, with but one loss on its record, moved into second and received three first place votes.

PRESS-RECORD/HERALD BASKETBALL POLL
Team	Pls.
1. Lovejoy (3)	47
2. MADISON (2)	46
3. (td) Oakville	35
4. Lebanon	35
5. VENICE	34
6. Westlin	34
7. Hillsboro	17
8. Assumption	12
9. (tie) Carlyle	8
10. Breese Mater Dei	8
Others receiving votes were:
Waterloo, New Athens, Dupo and Chester

In Class A, Lovejoy edged Madison by the margin of a single point. The reason? Madison got one third place vote mixed in with its firsts and seconds, thus giving Lovejoy the margin it needed, earlier in the season.

Lovejoy whipped powerful Cairo, giving the Pilots their only loss of the season. Oakville tied with Lebanon for third in the Class A voting. Venice picked up some points from last week and in firmly entrenched in the fifth spot. Westlin (Trenton) is but two points back of the Red Devils.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of this week's Class A poll is the debut at number seven of Hillsboro. The Hilltoppers, after upsetting Missouri Champion DeSmet 61-60 Tuesday at the Belleville East Tournament were not even mentioned on previous ballots this season.

In Class AA, East St. Louis dropped to fourth behind Collinsville, while Gateway East powers Edwardsville and Cahokia are tied for fifth.

Belleville West or Mascoutah — neither would be easy. As it turned out, the Steelers will take on the Mascoutah Indians, who lost to West 53-50, last night following North's opening round game.

Top coaches

The American Motors' Coach of the Year Football Clinic will be staged in Stouffville's Riverfront Inn on Feb. 22, 23 and 24. It was announced today by U.S.C. and Woody Hayes the former head coach of Ohio State U. will be headliners at this year's Clinic.

In addition to Robinson and Hayes some of the nation's premiere head coaches will also lecture. Fred Akers of Texas, Johnny Majors of Tennessee, Roy Kidd of Eastern Kentucky, Mike Gottfried of Murray State, Kentucky and the nation's number one high school football coach Gerry Faust of Cincinnati's Moeller High School.

Also included in the program will be two outstanding Alabama U. coaches, assistant head coach and defensive coordinator Ken Donahue and offensive coordinator Mai Moore.

This clinic is not limited to high school and college coaches only, but is open to the general public and all little league coaches. The registration fee is $20 per person when paid in advance and $25 on the day of the clinic.

Steelers drop keys, Murphy slams door

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

BELLEVILLE — It looked like, for a quarter at least, that Granite City North had found the key to winning basketball.

In the opening round of its second tournament of the season, North looked as if they might pull off another surprising victory. The kind of victories that took the Steelers to championship of the Mater Dei Christmas tournament in their first tournament this season.

By the second quarter, though, it was becoming apparent that this — the Belleville East Invitational Tournament — was no Mater Dei and that this most assuredly wasn't Christmas.

And by final-buzzer time it was clear. The Murphysboro Red Devils came to the Belleville bearing no gifts. North lost 77-57.

Oh, for a while though, it was nice to speculate. When the Steelers pulled ahead early in the game it was pleasing to contemplate North rising to yet another occasion.

The Steelers jumped to 16-13 lead at the end of the first quarter. Dennis Page, North's sweet-shooting guard was popping away and Mike Robertson and Mike York were working hard under the basket.

"Actually, we took the lead fairly easily," North coach Bill Ohlendorf said. "It was in the second quarter the thought prevailed. If they could maintain the same level in play the Steelers might just pull it off. With almost half the quarter gone, North led 20-13.

About that time, the bottom of the Steelers' dream kind of collapsed.

Until the end of the half, North scored only three more points. Meanwhile, the Red Devils revving up their engines preparing to leave North behind in a cloud of smoke.

Before the Steelers scored again, Murphysboro put in 13 points and took a 31-23 lead into the lockerroom at the half.

"The problem was we just didn't have any intensity, especially in the second quarter," Ohlendorf said. "We were just standing around out there."

And while the Steelers stood and watched, the Red Devils stole the game out from under them.

It was a bad combination. North seemed to run out of gas, while Murphysboro's Ray Blakemore and Dirk Borgsmiller got gassed up.

Especially Borgsmiller. The 6-4 senior sprang to life late in the second quarter after a dormant first period. It was the beginning of a 30-point performance which included eight rebounds for good measure.

The Steelers, though, just eight points down at the middle of the game, were far from out of the game just yet.

If they could make up the lost points quickly, things would change. There was time left.

"We knew we had to do something to try to get back in," Ohlendorf said.

The device, the Steelers chose was a pressing, running game.

And things did change. Murphysboro countered with a matching press and up and down court the two went, matching one another nearly stride for stride.

"In the third quarter, I don't think we played that poorly," Ohlendorf said.

The thing was, though, Murphysboro didn't either. The Red Devils, taking advantage of North turnovers, increased their lead to ten points. And give or take a basket, that's about where the score remained throughout the quarter.

Not until the end of the period did North manage to cut into the Red Devil lead.

When York went under the basket for a hard-earned lay up with 47 seconds left in the quarter, the Steelers had pulled to within six points of Murphysboro.

Perhaps it was telling, what happened next. The Red Devils went into a last shot drill, running the clock down in order to score just before the period ended.

They played it a little too close, though, and with a second showing, Borgsmiller was forced to send up a desperate shot from behind the key.

The shot slipped through the net. It was Borgsmiller's 14th point of the quarter, and it put the Red Devils ahead 53-45.

"That shot kind of hurt us," Ohlendorf said.

"Instead of being six down going into the fourth quarter, we're eight down. If he hadn't been at when we got the tip at the start of the fourth quarter we could have cut the lead to four."

Instead, Murphysboro rebuilt its original ten-point lead and held it until the final minutes.

By then North was desperate and committing fouls was their only alternative. In the last two minutes of the game, the Red Devils made six free throws.

By the time the game ended their lead was up to 20 points.

It may be that the Steelers' collapse was more a result of sheer physical depletion than anything else.

"We're just not healthy," Ohlendorf said. "Keith Burton is still out with a foot problem and Dennis (Page) hasn't been at full strength for more than a week."

"That puts a lot of pressure on everyone else."

West upends Indians

BELLEVILLE — Granite City North had but to look to the pairings bracket of the Belleville East Invitational basketball tournament to realize that the next few days' competition would be rough.

After losing to Murphysboro in the opening round last night, the Steelers dropped to fourth behind Collinsville, while Gateway East powers Edwardsville and Cahokia are tied for fifth.

Belleville West or Mascoutah — neither would be easy. As it turned out, the Steelers will take on the Mascoutah Indians, who lost to West 53-50, last night following North's opening round game.

Top coaches

The American Motors' Coach of the Year Football Clinic will be staged in Stouffville's Riverfront Inn on Feb. 22, 23 and 24. It was announced today by U.S.C. and Woody Hayes the former head coach of Ohio State U. will be headliners at this year's Clinic.

In addition to Robinson and Hayes some of the nation's premiere head coaches will also lecture. Fred Akers of Texas, Johnny Majors of Tennessee, Roy Kidd of Eastern Kentucky, Mike Gottfried of Murray State, Kentucky and the nation's number one high school football coach Gerry Faust of Cincinnati's Moeller High School.

Also included in the program will be two outstanding Alabama U. coaches, assistant head coach and defensive coordinator Ken Donahue and offensive coordinator Mai Moore.

On paper, it appeared North's likely opponent would be the Indians. But appearances can be deceiving.

Belleville West had won but two of its 13 games going into the tournament, while Mascoutah was 9-4.

More important, the Indians have a young, inexperienced team, yet one loaded with potential talent. Against Mascoutah, the potential was realized like few times this season.

With Dave Wordworth, a 6-4 sophomore pumping in seven points in the opening period, Belleville jumped to 17-10 first quarter lead.

After that both teams dug in. West led at one point near the middle of the second quarter by nine. But Mascoutah cut that margin later to four. At the half the Maroons led 26-22.

Belleville was doing something that few teams have been able to do — hold both Jenner (all 6-6, 220 pounds of him) and at the same time stop powerful Reggie Drew.

It was an effective combination. Jenner had only 11 points at the half, and Drew only two. And Drew was in foul trouble with three against him.

But Mascoutah righted itself somewhat in the second half, pulling to within 42-39 with four minutes left in the game.

That three point difference, though, proved to be the final hurdle that the Indians just couldn't quite clear.

West was still ahead by three, when, with 40 seconds to go, Mascoutah's Bobby Williams was called for a charging foul.

West's Jerry Haas went to the line, made one of his two free throws and the Indians were done for.

Another Mascoutah foul followed, and again West was successful at the line, increasing the lead to five. The Indians tried desperately to force a three point play in the closing seconds, but the best they could manage was Jenner's two-point lay up at the buzzer.

West won 53-50.

South whips Edwardsville

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City South girls basketball team ran its record to 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the Gateway East Conference Tuesday with a 64-45 victory over Edwardsville.

South overcame a cold shooting first quarter to storm from behind and coast to the win. The Warriors were a frigid three-of-17 in the first period and trailed at the first stop 14-6. Then two things happened that caused the dramatic turnaround. South started pressing and started hitting. "I thought we played great defensively," said South coach Norm Grote. "We caused a number of their turnovers and were able to capitalize on them."

One of the players mainly responsible for those Edwardsville turnovers was Teri Schuler. "Things started to happen when she came in," said Grote. "She's scrappy on defense."

"She's our sparkplug." Much attention has been focused on South's Chris

Boyd. And true to form, she led her team with 16 points. But she wasn't the only Warrior to hit double figures. No way. South had an incredibly-balanced scoring attack.

Right behind Boyd was Susan Bell with 15, Susan Jeffries with 14 and Nita Graham with 14. Schuler had five.

With the full-court press paying such high dividends for South, why did Grote wait until the second quarter to implement it? "We've been having foul problems early,"

he said. "So we usually try and get by without it until we have to use it."

South's junior varsity squad remained undefeated at 4-0 with a 50-42 victory over Edwardsville in a preliminary game. The young Warriors were paced by Susan Jeffries with 12 and Kathy Sikora with 12 and Natalie Buster with 10 points. The junior varsity is coached by Gary Morgan.

South will be in action next Tuesday when it travels to Cahokia for a Gateway East Conference game.

Assertive training offered

A seven-week assertive training program for men and women will begin on Tuesday, Feb. 5, as part of the family life education program of the Mental Health Clinic, Quad-City Center.

Marjorie Baier, community mental health nurse and group facilitator, explains, "Assertive training is a way of learning how to respond to people in an open and direct manner without infringing on the rights of other people or giving up one's own rights."

"It can help people feel better about themselves by teaching them how to get ideas across to others. 'The group is taught in a small, supportive setting, with its purpose being skill training and not group therapy.' The group will focus on developing effective communication and increasing self-confidence."

Sessions will be held on seven consecutive Tuesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, Granite City. The fee for assertive training is $35, with a fee reduction available upon disclosure of income.

Two additional groups on assertive training will be offered in the Highland and Edwardsville areas starting in April.

Persons may enroll by contacting Sue Borstein, coordinator of community education at the Granite City office, (877-4420); the Highland office (654-7222), or the Edwardsville office (656-8721).

Calvo settles dispute over election judges

Chief Circuit Judge Horace Calvo has overruled Madison County Board Member Louis Whitsell on election judges in two of the precincts in Whitsell's district.

On Tuesday, Calvo selected two names for election judges from a list submitted by the precinct committee of Namecki Township Districts Five and 11.

He cited failure by Whitsell to comply with a notification by the court that he should select election judges in those two precincts from a list submitted by the committee.

The court ruled Nov. 30 that two persons were improperly put on the list of judges by Whitsell. That list subsequently was approved by the County Board.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles explained, "It is the option of the precinct committee to submit names of persons for judges and submit the names to the political parties' central committees."

"The central committees then recommend the judges of election and the county chairman of each party certifies the list of recommendations."

"It is the option of County Board members to select from names submitted, but they cannot make their own appointments," Miss Bowles said.

She contended Whitsell ignored the recommendations of the Democratic Central Committee in appointing election judges in Precincts Five and 11 who had not been on the list.

The precinct committee from those precincts—Mrs. Helen Hawkins in Precinct Five and Arthur Thies in Precinct 11—challenged Whitsell's action in court and Judge Calvo ruled Nov. 30 that the judges approved for those precincts were not eligible, since their names were not on the list submitted by the Democratic Central Committee.

The judge nullified the appointment of Dorothy I. Dyer as an election judge in Precinct Five and Ethel Moaid in Precinct 11 and ordered the County Board to fill the vacancies from the names originally submitted by the precinct committee.

Since the precincts were in Whitsell's county board district, Miss Bowles said she notified him in early December to make a selection from the original list. She alleged he failed to comply.

Mrs. Hawkins objected, alleging Whitsell was attempting to delay the new appointments until after Miss Bowles conducts training for election judges.

"Then we would have to settle on whoever had been trained," Mrs. Hawkins said.

As of Tuesday morning, Miss Bowles said, Whitsell had not made the appointments. She said Judge Calvo had indicated to her that "if they were not made in a reasonable time, the issue should be referred back to him."

She notified Calvo later Tuesday morning of the continuing vacancies and Calvo made the appointments himself.

School Nurse Day observed locally

Wednesday was School Nurses Day in Illinois.

The job of the school nurse is more than calling a parent and saying that "Mary" is ill, according to Merna M. Musterman, public relations director for the Granite City School District.

What do school nurses really do?

"School nursing is helping a teacher understand a student's particular health problems," Mrs. Musterman said.

"The school nurse organizes, evaluates and refers students to and from testing programs for hearing, vision and scoliosis. Her careful assessment of the patient determines if the student with an ache needs a listening ear, emergency treatment or a doctor's care."

"School nursing is the art and skill of understanding and assisting a student who may or may not realize what ails him," Mrs. Musterman said.

"The school nurse is an active member of many teams within the school such as: athletic programs, health and special education, guidance department as well as many community services." In the state of Illinois recent legislation requires each school nurse to hold a bachelor's degree in addition to being a registered nurse. The school nurse must also have courses in education, special education and community health.

School nurses in the Quad-City area are: Doris McFain of the Venice School District; Nina Dittman, school nurse for the Madison School District; and Granite City school nurses, Margaret Amisch, Betty Bartels, Ruth Crawford, Carol Farnsworth, Nancy Graf, Norma Hand, Ruth McCarty, Frances Robbers and Delores Stalecker.

Proclamation issued by Governor Thompson

Because of their excellent training and a deep concern for the welfare of our children, school nurses are members of one of the most trusted groups in our nation.

Parents are assured during school hours that their children will receive professional treatment for any injury or illness, whether a minor mishap or major emergency.

Children who become ill or injured are confident the school nurse will offer sympathy, concern and an encouraging smile along with medical care.

THEREFORE I, James R. Thompson, Governor of the State of Illinois, proclaim January 23, 1980, SCHOOL NURSE DAY in Illinois, to express gratitude for their consistent demonstration of professionalism and humanism.

PEOPLE

TOP LEFT . . . Ruth Crawford checks the vision of a student using a vision tester from the Audio-visual center of the Granite City School District.

TOP RIGHT . . . Madison school nurse Nina Dittman checks a pupil's health record. She travels daily between the various schools within the Madison School District.

RIGHT CENTER . . . Doris McFain, school nurse for the Venice school system, updates a student's immunization record. Such records are kept on file in her office for reference.

AT LEFT . . . Delores Stalecker, who is the nurse at both Coolidge Junior High and Niedringhaus School, checks the hearing of a student at one of the schools. Hearing, vision and other testing is an ongoing process at all of the Quad-City schools.

AT RIGHT . . . Carol Farnsworth is seen checking a student's head for lice while working at Emerson School. Nurses in the Granite City School District divide their daily schedules between several schools.

YOUR MONEY AND YOUR LIFE. How to Plan Your Long-Range Financial Security, by C. Coburn Hardy, AMACOM, 340 pages, $14.95. From tax shelters to municipal bonds, Hardy covers just about every financial angle of concern to the individual who has managed to set aside a few bucks for investment. This is hard, practical advice — not the esoteric flights of fancy that one sometimes finds in a financial book. Hardy compares average rates of return for a variety of investments and also assesses the risk factor. And he has performance ratings on some of the mutual funds.

Overall, Hardy has crammed an impressive amount of concrete information into this volume, and it's highly recommended.

Ladies, Start Your Engines

Q. How much less power does an auto battery have in the winter?

A. Cold weather has a definite negative effect on your car's battery. A battery has about 35 percent less cranking power at 32 degrees than it does at 80 degrees. And if the temperature drops to zero a battery has about 60 percent less power than it did on that hot day last summer.

If the battery is old and does not hold a full charge, it can fall in very cold weather.

Couple this drop in power with the fact that at zero the engine requires about twice the power to crank than it required at 80 degrees and you have sufficient reason to have your battery checked before you can't get your car started on a cold morning or in the parking lot after work.

Another problem with an old battery in very cold weather is that it may freeze. The electrolyte — the liquid — in a fully charged battery will not freeze until more than 71 below zero. But the liquid in a battery charged only 25 percent will freeze at about 5 above zero.

Do not add water to a battery in freezing temperatures unless the vehicle will be put into use at once. Otherwise, the added water will not mix with the acid solution already in the battery and may freeze.

Proper Use of This Medicine

• Take this medicine only as directed by your doctor. Do not take more of it, do not take it more often, and do not take it for a longer period of time than your doctor ordered. If too much is taken, it may become habit-forming.

• If you miss a dose of this medicine and remember within an hour or so of the missed dose, take it right away. Then go back to your regular dosing schedule. But if you do not remember until later, do not take the dose at all and do not double the next one. Instead, go back to your regular dosing schedule. If you have any questions about this, check with your doctor.

Precautions While Using This Medicine

• If you will be taking this medicine regularly for a long period of time:
—check with your doctor at least every 4 months to make sure you need to continue taking this medicine.

• If you will be taking this medicine in large doses or for a long period of time, do not stop taking it without first checking with your doctor. Your doctor may want you to reduce gradually the amount you are taking before stopping completely.

• This medicine will add to the effects of alcohol and other medicines (CNS depressants) that slow down the nervous system. Some examples of CNS depressants are anesthetics, including dental anesthetics; antihistamines or medicine for hay fever, asthma, allergies, or colds; barbiturates; medicine for seizures; narcotics; other sedative, tranquilizers, or sleeping medicine; prescription pain medicine; or tricyclic antidepressants (medicine for depression). This medicine may last for a few days after you stop taking this medicine. Check with your doctor before taking any of the above while you are taking this medicine and also for a few days after you stop taking it.

• This medicine may cause some people to become dizzy, lightheaded, drowsy, or less alert than they are normally. Even if taken at bedtime, it may cause some people to feel drowsy or less alert on arising. Make sure you know how you react to this medicine before you drive, use machines, or do other jobs that require you to be alert.

Side Effects of This Medicine

• Along with its needed effects, a medicine may cause some unwanted effects. Although not all of these side effects appear very often, when they do occur they may require medical attention. Check with your doctor if any of the following side effects occur:

Less common or rare

Dizziness or lightheadedness
Drowsiness

Less common

Blurred vision
Constipation
Diarrhea

• Although not all of the side effects listed above have been reported for all of these medicines, they have been reported for at least one of them. However, since all of the benzodiazepines are very similar, any of the above side effects may occur with any of these medicines.

• After you stop using this medicine, your body may need time to adjust. The length of time this takes depends on the amount of medicine you were using and how long you used it. During this period of time check with your doctor if you notice any of the following side effects:

Convulsions or seizures
Mental confusion
Muscle cramps
Nausea or vomiting

• Other side effects not listed above may also occur in some patients. If you notice any other effects, check with your doctor.

Our Children

By WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D.

Q. Please, please help me get my mother off my back! She has this great "solution" for all child problems — pull out their tonsils.

She's told me many times about how she took all four of her children to the doctor and had them taken out at the same time. No, they didn't have any serious problems which caused her to bring on that mass operation, but she insists that occasional colds and earaches stopped happening, so that made it all worthwhile. We have two young children, 1 and 3 years old, and fortunately they are both quite healthy. I've talked to our pediatrician about their tonsils, and he assures me that they are fine. He refuses even to consider taking them out, telling me that he feels they have an important function. He won't remove them unless their purpose is interfered with due to disease of some sort.

So that's where we stand — the doctor, my husband and me against my mother. My husband says we should tell her to "Bug off," but after all, she is my mother. What do you think?

A. Even mothers can be wrong, so you might tell her politely but firmly that you go to the pediatrician for his expert opinions for which you pay, and because his advice makes sense to you, you intend to follow it.

It may be difficult for you to believe right now, but most mothers and mothers-in-law relax their pressures in time. Of course, they may skip from tonsils to diet to school to discipline or something else, but at least the tonsils bit won't last forever. It'll get easier for you to cope with her other evolving demands once you begin to take this one in stride.

Joint checks cost less

Q. My wife and I filed for monthly benefits based on my work. We were surprised when we received only one check with both names on it. We want to know how you go about getting separate checks? — C.E.

A. Separate checks will be sent to a husband and wife if either one requests it. However, monthly benefits are payable to a husband and wife who are entitled on the same Social Security record and are living at the same address are usually combined in one check made out to them jointly. This costs less and is usually more convenient for the beneficiaries.

If either the husband or wife dies, the combined check for the month of death or for the month before death can be made over to the survivor.

Bradbury's visionary stories come to TV

Science fiction used to be looked upon as a trash form of literature, unsuitable for anyone with a smidgen of maturity. But in the past 20 years, especially, sci-fi has been picking up supporters from the very groups that were once its harshest critics. Most notable have been sci-fi's inroads into educational communities: It has been estimated that one out of every five high schools offers a course in science fiction.

The popularity of science fiction is long standing. Science fiction provides us with an opportunity to imagine the future, to develop "future consciousness." Sci-fi stories project possible future societies — the role of the family, the impact of science, government and religion, the use of work and leisure time.

Science fiction helps us get accustomed to the idea of change by presenting the consequences of this technological advancement or that kind of transformed social arrangement. It also deals with the important questions of our age. In a very real sense, sci-fi projections are actually reflections on contemporary institutions, ideas and ideals.

These elements of science fiction are all evident in the NBC presentation, "The Martian Chronicles." The three-part mini-series, which will be presented this week, is based on Ray Bradbury's popular space adventure. The production was shot on location in Malta and the Canary Islands.

"The Martian Chronicles" has sold more than 5 million copies since 1950 and has been translated into some 20 languages. The 28 stories that comprise the book show a stylistic mix of science fiction, fantasy and social drama that is intriguing.

planet, they are destroyed by Mr. K (James Faulkner), a Martian who fears their presence — especially after he sees his wife Ylla (Maggie Wright) swoon while dreaming of the spaceship's arrival. A later expedition finds the Martian civilization has been decimated by the chicken pox, spread by American explorers.

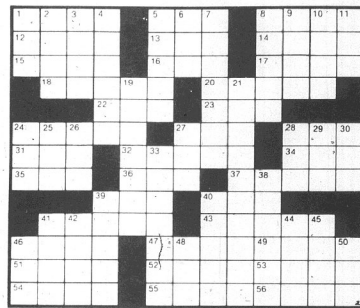

"THE SETTLERS," Monday, Jan. 28. In 2004, a fleet of spaceships filled with a group of settlers land on Mars. Soon there are a dozen communities there. Father Peregrine (Fritz Weaver) and Father Stone (Roddy McDowell) get lost in the wilderness. Meanwhile from Earth, there is news of nuclear war.

"THE MARTIANS," Tuesday, Jan. 29. Back on Earth, Wilder learns that his relatives have died in the war. There is desolation on Mars too. A man called Driscoll (Christopher Connolly) desperately searches for someone to talk to. He meets Genevieve (Bernadette Peters) in an empty town but turns away when he realizes she's enslaved to possessions. Another settler creates an android family. At last Wilder comes into contact with a Martian. They share meanings. Afterwards the renewed Wilder takes his family on a picnic. When they ask to see Martian, he points to their reflections in the water of a canal. The Wilder family will begin their life together on Mars with a new reverence for the place. They are no longer Earth chauvinists.

TUESDAY

When Earthmen decide to colonize Mars, it is not long before they confront a real Martian (Derek Lamen), in Ray Bradbury's "The Martian Chronicles," on NBC, to be aired Sunday (Jan. 27), Monday (Jan. 28) and Tuesday (Jan. 29). (Station reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)
